In carrying out the purposes of the Budget system so wisely prescribed by the Congress in June, 1921, the executive branch and the legislative branch of the Government have been colaborers. It has been a great demonstration of cooperation made possible by our form of government. The results of this united effort have gone directly to the people of this Nation. The real object back of this united effort has been to make the greatest possible return to the people of the money which was taken from them to finance the World War. And this has been accomplished not to the detriment of the Federal service, not by the withholding of funds for necessary and worthy purposes, but to the advantage of that service and of the business of the people. It has required us to put our house in order and to provide for its management in a scientific business way, not alone for its current operations, but also for its future requirements.

In the span of a little more than five years there have been three substantial reductions in taxes. The direct result of this has been that the people have been permitted to retain more of their own earnings for their own use and productive investment. And from this, and probably to a greater extent than from any other cause, has come the great prosperity which now exists in almost all lines in this country.

In considering the question of further tax reduction there are many factors which should be taken into account. During the past five fiscal years the Treasury has had the benefit of receipts aggregating $950,000,000 representing returns from moneys theretofore expended by the United States, and, in addition, there has been received $400,000,000 from income taxes for past years in excess of refunds. In the present fiscal year the net income from these items represents about $250,000,000 of our expected receipts. They are now about at an end, and in the fiscal year 1928 it is estimated the net return from this source will amount to less than $50,000,000. We have come to the point, therefore, where we will have to rely for the future entirely upon current taxes. The yield from current taxes of the Federal Government is measured by the prosperity of the American people. When business is good and national income is high, our revenue from income taxes based upon a percentage of income is also high. But should the national income decline, the Government would experience a material loss of revenue even under existing rates of tax. Miscellaneous taxes and customs duties are dependent upon the purchasing power of the people, which also is subject to variation with prosperity, and we must expect a decrease in Government revenue from these sources with any drop in the purchases of the American people. Under these conditions our estimated surplus of $200,000,000 for 1928 is none too large an operating margin in a business involving an annual expenditure of more than three and one-half billions of dollars payable from ordinary receipts, or more than four billions of dollars when we include our postal expenditures payable from postal receipts.

The revenue act of 1926 has been in effect but nine months, and the reduction in miscellaneous taxes has not yet been fully reflected in revenue. We have had too short an experience with the new law to permit an intelligent permanent reduction of tax rates. It must be clear to all that a permanent reduction of rates affects not only the current fiscal year, in which, as I have said, there are included nonrecurring items aggregating $250,000,000, but the next and succeeding fiscal years in which nonrecurring items will no longer be material and when current taxes may feel the effect of any change in our prosperity. Business can easily adjust itself to less expenses brought about by less taxes, but it is much more difficult to make an adjustment for more expenses made necessary by more taxes. This is particularly true with respect to Federal taxes, since the necessity of imposing additional taxes would arise from a decline in prosperity which would decrease governmental revenue below governmental expenditures, a decline which must also affect all taxpayers. Increased taxes to meet Government requirements would come at a time not of prosperity but of depression, and would aggravate the depression. For these reasons I do not advise the present session of Congress to reduce permanently our tax rates or abolish any particular tax. Each of the three reductions in taxes which have been enacted by the Congress since the fiscal year 1921 have been predicated on an assurance that our financial condition warranted it. No such assurance can be given to-day as a warrant for future permanent tax reduction.

With our still enormous national debt amounting to nearly nineteen and one-half billion dollars, a surplus can be no embarrassment, since it can be applied without difficulty to the reduction of the interest-bearing obligations of the Government and thus effect a saving in interest costs. Interest is the largest single item of Government expenditure, and its decrease offers the most fruitful subject for permanent reduction of governmental expenditure. We have had since the close of the war an established program of debt reduction through the sinking fund and application of receipts from foreign-debt settlements. This should not be disturbed. But surplus is a factor in debt reduction in addition to the items I have just mentioned. In considering the question of a lessening of the surplus for the current fiscal year it is necessary to weigh the desirability in the present of temporary relief to the American taxpayer against desirability in the future of greater debt reduction now. Should Congress be of the opinion that the surplus estimated for the current fiscal year based upon receipts expected to be received under the existing law is too large, then I suggest a temporary tax reduction measure which will cut down this expected surplus by leaving the excess in the pockets of the American taxpayers.

In determining the form such temporary tax reduction should take, if the Congress proposes one, I believe we should adopt the simplest practical plan which will do equity. It is administratively difficult to consider any arrangement affecting the December 15, 1926, tax payment. Many individuals have already paid their income taxes in full, and time is too short for action by Congress and by the Bureau of Internal Revenue before the December payment. It would not be practicable, either, to postpone the date of the December payment, since there are $452,000,000 of United States certificates of indebtedness maturing on December 15, 1926, and the Treasury is relying upon cash to be received during that month to assist it in meeting this maturity. It has seemed to me, therefore, that the most practicable way of preventing the accumulation by the close of this fiscal year of a surplus larger than the Congress deems desirable is to authorize a reduction in the taxes which become due in the first six months of the next year; that is, a reduction on the quarterly tax payments due March 15 and June 15, 1927. The amount of this relief should depend upon the surplus which Congress may desire to divert from debt reduction to tax reduction. It is a problem on which the House under the Constitution must originate action.

With the experience of another year's test of the revenue act of 1926, and with a more accurate knowledge which the year will give of what the future has in store for a continuance of our prosperity, we can determine what our permanent policy of taxation shall be. In times of peace we must meet governmental expenditures out of governmental revenues. We should not take by taxation more than our requirements. But also we should not take less than our requirements.

In the Budget for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1927, transmitted to the Congress December 7, 1925, the estimated receipts for the fiscal year 1926 were $3,880,716,942 and the estimated expenditures $3,618,675,186. Actual receipts for that year were $3,962,755,690.14, while actual expenditures totaled but $3,584,987,873.50—an increase of $82,038,748.14 in receipts over the Budget estimate, and a decrease in expenditure of $33,687,312.50 below that estimate, which is approximately 1 per cent of the total expenditure. This increase in receipts and reduction in expenditure increased the estimated surplus by $115,726,060.64—from $262,041,756, the Budget estimate, to $377,767,816.64, the actual surplus.

This brings us to the current fiscal year, of which five full months are now completed. The Budget for 1927 forecast for that year receipts $3,824,530,203, and expenditures $3,494,222,308.44, and indicated a surplus of $330,307,894.56. This favorable forecast made one year ago now may be made even more favorable. With five months of the current year completed, the estimate is now that our receipts will amount to $4,026,780,688 and our expenditures, $3,643,701,593, thus forecasting a surplus of $383,079,095.

While the revised estimate for 1927 shows an increase of $52,771,200 in the surplus, it also shows a net increase of $149,500,000 in the estimated expenditure for that year.

This net increase embraces a number of items in which changes, both increases and decreases, have occurred in the year which has ensued since the original estimate was made. On the increase side of the new estimate the principal items are: Pensions, $41,000,000; construction of public buildings and vessels under the Treasury Department, $25,000,000; vocational rehabilitation, insurance and compensation under the Veterans' Bureau, $41,000,000; public debt reduction, $50,000,000. The last-mentioned item was due to a corresponding increase in the estimated receipts of funds that are required by law to be applied to debt reduction as a result of new foreign funding agreements made during the year. The other items of increase are due principally to new legislation enacted during the year. On the decrease side the major items are adjusted service certificate fund, $24,000,000; increased receipts of the War Finance Corporation, applied to a reduction of expenditure, $15,000,000; and interest on public debt, $10,000,000. Part of the increase in estimated expenditure was provided by appropriations made during the last session of Congress. There remains to be provided at the present session of the Congress for the 1927 requirements of the Veterans' Bureau $28,000,000, and for pensions $41,000,000.

We now come to the estimates of appropriations for the fiscal year 1928. These are summarized in the following statement, in which they are compared with the appropriations for the fiscal year 1927:

[1] Appropriations for the Railroad Labor Board for 1927 were made available for expenses of the Board of Mediation.

This statement indicates that the estimates of appropriations for 1928 payable from the Treasury are $2,600,000 less than the appropriations for 1927. The estimates for 1928 do not include the amount which will be required in that year, in addition to existing appropriations, for carrying out the public building act of May 25, 1926. An estimate for this purpose, which will amount to approximately $20,000,000, will be submitted to the Congress later, as all of the essential data has not yet been assembled. On the other hand, the appropriations for 1927 do not take into consideration certain lawful obligations for that year for which it will be necessary to present supplemental estimates to the Congress.

TAX REFUNDS

The appropriations for 1927 and the estimates for 1928 make no provision for tax refunds. There will be needed for the balance of the current year $119,000,000 and for 1928 the sum of $152,000,000, approximately. There has been spent this year for this purpose $34,775,000, so that the expenditures for the two years will fairly balance. The appropriations for this purpose have been completely exhausted. A supplemental estimate to provide for refunds up to and including December, 1927, will be presented to Congress.

NATIONAL DEFENSE

The estimates for the War and Navy Departments total $680,537,642. In addition to this they provide for availability through contract authorizations and allotments from the naval supply account of $5,900,000. Eliminating all nonmilitary items, including the retired lists, this Budget provides $574,000,000 for our national defense. This is a very considerable amount to spend for protection in time of peace. No threatening cloud at the present time darkens the sky. Our intent and attitude is one of peace and friendly regard toward all nations and peoples. This, however, is not sufficient warrant to neglect our defense and default on necessary precautions. In recommending the amount herein carried for the Army and Navy and other national defense factors, I am fully satisfied that with the wise administration we have reason to expect from those charged with its expenditure it will give us an adequate defense program.

With regard to personnel the estimates provide for the Army an average of 11,961 commissioned officers, 1,153 cadets, 1,219 warrant officers, and 115,000 enlisted men, exclusive of the Philippine Scouts, for which provision is made to the number of 6,882. For the Navy provision is made for an average of 7,231 commissioned officers, 1,479 warrant officers, 1,545 midshipmen, and 82,500 enlisted men, and for the Marine Corps 1,020 commissioned officers, 155 warrant officers, and 16,800 enlisted men. These, with our highly trained and efficient National Guard, for which the estimates make provision for an average personnel of 180,000, give us the rather formidable strength of 426,945. But we do not stop here. The estimates contain funds for the War Department for the training of 12,924 reserve officers, for the attendance of 30,000 men at civilian military training camps and for the enrollment of 116,141 students in the units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. Under the Navy Department provision is made in the estimates for 14,142 fleet and assigned fleet reserve of the Navy and Marine Corps and the training of 11,145 Navy and Marine Corps reserves.

Taking all of these into account, we are really making provision for military and naval strength of more than 610,000 men. And this does not take into consideration the military and naval retired lists which embrace 14,167 officers and men, or the Coast Guard of 11,969 officers and men which, in time of emergency, becomes an integral part of our national defense. I am in favor of adequate military preparedness, and so far as personnel is concerned we should certainly have this from the funds carried in these estimates.

While on the subject of our national defense it is proper to state that no provision is made in the estimates for the Navy Department for commencing the construction of the remaining three of the eight light cruisers which the act of December 18, 1924, authorizes to be undertaken prior to July 1, 1927. This country is now engaged in negotiations to broaden our existing treaties with the great powers which deal with the elimination of competition in naval armaments. I feel that it would be unfortunate at this time and not in keeping with our attitude toward these negotiations to commence the construction of these three cruisers. Rather do I recommend to the Congress the enactment of legislation which will extend the time for beginning their construction.

With regard to the improvement of Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, an appropriation of $1,000,000 is available this year for commencing dredging operations. Bids covering the completion of this Navy project will be opened during the current month. A supplemental estimate will be submitted should it be found that additional funds for 1928 are needed for the orderly prosecution and early completion of this important project.

AVIATION IN NATIONAL DEFENSE AND IN COMMERCE

The Congress has recently prescribed a well-digested and orderly program for the further development of the air services of the Army and Navy. The estimates herewith make adequate provision for carrying this program into effect. They provide for the immediate availability of certain amounts for the Air Corps of the Army so as not to delay the inauguration of the five-year program. As the act defining the Army aircraft program was not approved until July 2, 1926, there was no opportunity to present to the Congress at its last session an estimate for funds fully to carry into effect the first increment during the fiscal year 1927. The estimates submitted herewith make ample provision for carrying into effect that part of the program for 1927 and 1928 which orderly and efficiently can be accomplished. They do not, however, make provision of funds for two full yearly increments, as I do not believe it is the desire of the Congress that we attempt to crowd into less than one and one-half years a full two-year increment. The act of July 2, 1926, increases the authorized commissioned strength of the Air Corps of the Army by 403 officers in yearly increments over the period of the five-year program. No provision for any of these additional officers is made in these estimates, as the Air Corps should first absorb the additional 328 officers necessary to bring its actual strength—919—up to the authorized strength—1,247 under the old law. These 328 additional officers are to be provided from the commissioned force for which provision is made in these estimates. The additional enlisted men authorized for the Air Corps are provided for in the enlisted strength of 115,000 men.

The Navy five-year air program approved June 24, 1926, authorized the construction of two rigid airships of approximately 6,000,000 cubic feet volume, the two to cost not in excess of $8,000,000. The act provides that the building of one of these ships shall be undertaken as soon as practicable and prior to July 1, 1928. Having in mind that the Congress recently appropriated $300,000 for the construction of an all-metal airship for experimental purposes, to determine by practical demonstration the type of construction and character of material to govern in the future in the making of lighter-than-air craft, it is thought the part of wisdom to wait upon this determination, even though it may be found necessary to ask for an extension of the time limit placed on the initiation of work on one of the ships.

Briefly summarized, provision is made in this Budget under the appropriation items for the air services and other items which enter into the cost thereof for a total of $73,477,380 for aviation of the Army and the Navy. This amount embraces $20,600,000 for the procurement of new planes and $2,400,000 for the construction of barracks and quarters at aviation fields. It does not, however, include the value of supplies available from war surplus, which would increase this total by a number of millions of dollars.

While discussing the subject of our air services, it is proper here to refer to the other provisions made in this Budget for air navigation. To carry into effect the act to encourage and regulate the use of aircraft in commerce, approved May 20, 1926, the estimates carry for the Department of Commerce $796,250 for the promotion of air commerce and regulatory work, which includes funds for the procurement of not to exceed 10 airplanes, and $3,219,500 for the establishment and maintenance of aids to air navigation. The estimates carry $523,000 for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. Under the Department of Agriculture they provide $50,000 for the maintenance and operation of airplane patrol in the national forests and $120,000 for special weather observations for the benefit of air navigation. The estimates for the Postal Service carry for the operation of the air mail service between New York and San Francisco $2,350,000, with provision that a part of this sum be made available for contract service if the route be leased to private operators and for the contract air mail service $2,000,000. The estimates for the Coast Guard carry $186,151 for the operation of its seaplane fleet.

The proper development of the aeronautical industry in this country is essential both to our national defense and commercial aviation. The Federal requirements for aircraft alone are strengthening this industry. The program which the Congress has prescribed for our air forces will assure the industry continuing Federal business and an increase from other sources should accrue to the industry from the legislation for the encouragement of commercial aviation and from the policy which we are following of making contracts with private operators for the air transportation of mail. The Government is operating but one air mail route and proposals have been issued by the Post Office Department with a view of placing this route under contract for operation by private interests. In the production of airplanes and accessories there is no competition between the Federal Government and private industry. It is a fortunate situation when the needs of the Government can be met by affording an orderly stimulation of the industry upon which we depend to supply our needs. The present sound condition of the aeronautical industry in this country shows the wisdom of the policy which we are following. If there is any question as to the failure of our Government to recognize the importance of aviation in national defense and in commerce the answer can be found in the vast sums which heretofore have been appropriated and the legislation enacted by the Congress. The estimates contained in this Budget carry alone for this purpose a total of more than $82,500,000.

SHIPPING BOARD

There is included in this Budget $12,000,000 for the operating deficit of the Shipping Board. It is believed this amount, reenforced by certain receivables and other available resources, with reduction of losses through sales of lines as opportunity offers, as contemplated by the Congress, will permit necessary operation of the Government's merchant marine during the fiscal year 1928. From 1921 to 1926, inclusive, the total net loss incurred in the operation of its various lines was $238,157,582.18. These figures represent losses sustained through the operation of the active fleet and the maintenance of inactive vessels. I mention this to show that in the six fiscal years from 1921 to 1926, inclusive, the Government has spent in the operation of its merchant marine an average of nearly $40,000,000 a year. The losses have been gradually diminishing each year. Provision is also made for continuing the availability of the $10,000,000 defense fund appropriated in the first session of this Congress.

With regard to the operation of vessels by the Shipping Board, the merchant marine act of 1920 contemplates that such operation shall be maintained unless it shall appear within a reasonable time that the lines or parts thereof can not be made self-sustaining. None of the lines now being operated are self-sustaining, and while the reduction in cost has been helpful from the standpoint of the Treasury there is no immediate prospect that any part of these lines can be operated without loss to the Government.

Under the joint resolution of July 3, 1926, the United States Shipping Board will present to the Congress not later than January 1, 1927, two plans for building up and maintaining an adequate merchant marine for commerce and national security—one through private capital and under private ownership and the other through construction, operation, and ownership by the Government. The time is approaching, if it has not already been reached, when the Congress should give consideration to the formulation of a more definite policy regarding our merchant marine. Such definite policy, I trust, is foreshadowed in the resolution to which I have referred.

ERADICATION OF TUBERCULOSIS

For the eradication of tuberculosis in animals an estimate for $5,853,000 is included in the Budget. This is an increase of $1,200,000 over the amount provided for the current year. The continuing increase in the number of cities which have placed embargoes against milk from dairy herds which have not passed the Federal tuberculin test is placing a heavy burden on the owners of dairy herds, since slaughter of infected animals is the accepted method of eradication. The furnishing of pure milk is of vital importance to the health of the people. Because of its interstate character, it is entirely proper that the Federal Government share with the States the cost of protecting the purity of this great food supply. The amount included in the estimates should permit adequate prosecution of the work of eliminating tubercular cattle from dairy herds.

The results of the work already done warrant the belief that we can confidently expect the complete elimination of this menace to health. With this hope and probability in mind, there certainly is no excuse or warrant for State or Nation to withhold the funds necessary to effectively carry on this important campaign.

FOREST CONSERVATION

The estimates carry a total of $22,037,984 for the protection, preservation, and conservation of our forests. The forest acreage in the United States is approximately 372,426,000 acres, of which 158,000,000 acres are in the national forests. With such generous forest resources we have been prone to consider the supply of forest materials inexhaustible. The constantly increasing demands to meet our growing needs, however, and the destruction of forests by fire are arousing apprehension that in the comparatively near future industry may be seriously handicapped for lack of forest products. Important remedies to meet this situation are fire prevention and reforestation. Throughout the forest regions cooperative work in connection with protection of timber and reforestation of lands has been highly developed. In many of the States it is compulsory on private owners. The Clarke-McNary law contemplates that the Federal Government as beneficiary in this cooperative work contribute approximately one-fourth the cost. Since forest products enter so largely into the necessities of all of our people, it is proper that the Federal Government stand ready to bear its share of the needed conservation of our timber resources. The increased estimates for forest activities now submitted have that end in view. The recent heavy losses by fire must be met by a deficiency appropriation, which will approximate $2,000,000. With further protective measures, it is hoped such large deficiency appropriations may be avoided in the future.

The estimates also include $1,000,000 for the acquisition of land at the headwaters of navigable streams. While this item is primarily for the conservation and control of water, the project bears an important relation to forest conservation. There is now pending in Congress a bill to authorize an appropriation of $2,000,000 a year for the fiscal years 1928 and 1929 for this purpose. In the event of the passage of this bill consideration will be given to the submission of a supplemental estimate of $1,000,000 for this purpose.

RURAL POST ROADS

For cooperative construction of rural post roads to June 30, 1928, the amount of $765,000,000 has been authorized by the Congress. The estimates carry $75,000,000 for 1928, which is the total authorization for that year. This amount would bring total appropriations to $666,200,000—$98,800,000 less than the amount authorized. In view of the authority granted the Secretary of Agriculture to enter into contractual obligations for the total authorization, it is necessary only to appropriate in each fiscal year the funds required to pay for current work. The construction program is not delayed by this method. In view of the increasing ability of the States to finance their own road construction, due to the general adoption of the gasoline tax, I renew my recommendation of a year ago that future legislation restrict the Federal Government's participation in State road construction to primary or interstate highways, leaving it to the States to finance their secondary or intercounty roads. This would operate to diminish the amount of the authorizations after the fiscal year 1929, when the present authority expires.

MATERNITY AND INFANCY

No estimate is submitted for carrying on the work under the maternity and infancy act, approved November 23, 1921, inasmuch as the authorization of appropriations for this purpose was fulfilled with the appropriation for 1927. A bill is now pending before the Congress extending the provisions of that act to the fiscal years 1928 and 1929. If and when that measure becomes law I propose sending to the Congress a supplemental estimate for an appropriation to make its provisions effective. I am in favor of the proposed legislation extending the period of operation of this law with the understanding and hope that the administration of the funds to be provided would be with a view to the gradual withdrawal of the Federal Government from this field, leaving to the States, who have been paid by Federal funds and schooled under Federal supervision, the privilege and duty of maintaining this important work without aid or interference from the Federal Government.

I have referred in previous Budget messages to the advisability of restricting and curtailing Federal subsidies to the States. The maternity act offers concrete opportunity to begin this program. The States should now be in a position to walk alone along this highway of helpful endeavor, and I believe it in the interest of the States and the Federal Government to give them the opportunity.

ENFORCEMENT OF PROHIBITION

For the enforcement of prohibition nearly $30,000,000 is provided in the Budget by direct and indirect appropriations. The Coast Guard has been enlarged and strengthened to enable it to prosecute effectively its part of the campaign of enforcement, while the other enforcement agencies have been amply financed. Whatever is necessary to put into effect the expressed will of the people as written into the eighteenth amendment of the Constitution of the United States and the will of the Congress as expressed in the Volstead Act will be done. Whatever funds may be necessary to vindicate the law and secure compliance with all its provisions should be provided. The constitutional duties of the President and the Congress make any other course indefensible.

RIVER AND HARBOR WORKS

This Budget carries $66,347,600 for the improvement and maintenance of existing river and harbor works, flood control, operation and care of canals, and other works of navigation. This does not include the maintenance and operation of the Panama Canal, for which $7,600,000 is recommended. For rivers and harbors proper the sum of $50,000,000 is asked. To complete approved projects, $195,000,000 will be required. Of the $50,000,000 contained in the Budget slightly more than $30,000,000 will be available for improvement and new construction. At this rate we will complete authorized projects in something less than seven years. We are providing $50,000,000 annually for river and harbor work and $10,000,000 annually for Mississippi flood control. Commitment of the Federal Government at this time to a more ambitious and generous annual spending program should not be made without the most careful study of the financial condition of the country and the plight of the taxpayer.

RELIEF OF VETERANS

For the relief, care, and comfort of the veterans of our various wars and their dependents I am recommending in this Budget a total of nearly $705,000,000. This total includes pensions, adjusted compensation, and all other factors, direct and indirect, that enter into this great patriotic service the Government owes its defenders. There can be no thought of curtailing this work of appreciation, this willing attempt to pay the Nation's debt. It may be wise, however, to call a halt at this time with regard to additional legislation for the veterans. It may be in the interest of the beneficiaries to permit existing provisions for their care and the care of their families to rest undisturbed for a period, at least until we can definitely determine what deserving need is unprovided for. What the veterans need it is a privilege to give, and the giving should crowd the heels of the need when determined.

CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT

Neither the estimates of expenditure nor the estimates of appropriations contained herein include any amount for meeting the accrued liability of the Government to the civil service retirement and disability fund. The pay-as-you-go policy should apply to this fund and an appropriation be made to meet the accrued liability of the Government. The act of Congress approved July 3, 1926, provides for the annual submission of a Budget estimate of appropriation for this purpose. Such an estimate, however, requires an actuarial valuation of the fund under the new law. This valuation is under way, but is not yet completed. When completed, I shall submit to the Congress an estimate of the amount required for the fiscal year for this purpose.

FEDERAL BUILDING

The Congress has made wise and substantial provision for the construction of much-needed Federal buildings, both at the seat of government and in the States. Contemporaneously with this the Congress made similar provision for our foreign building requirements and also for permanent housing at our military posts and stations. These measures give us a much-needed construction program. The funds which we spend to complete this program will be a good investment and bring us adequate return.

SPECIAL FUNDS AND ACCOUNTS

In addition to the usual statements giving information of the financial transactions of the establishments of the Government for which annual appropriations are made, the 1928 Budget carries a comprehensive summary of the financial status of a considerable number of special funds, accounts, and authorizations operated either by Government agencies direct or under some form of Government supervision and responsibility. This summary makes available information concerning the financial condition of various Government institutions not heretofore published in readily available form.

THE NATIONAL DEBT

The reduction in the total gross debt for the fiscal year 1926 was $872,977,572.71. This was effected by (1) $487,376,050.69 on account of the sinking fund and other debt retirements chargeable against ordinary receipts; (2) application of the entire surplus of $377,767,816.64; and (3) reduction in the general fund balance of $7,833,705.38 below the balance at the close of the previous fiscal year.

In the past five fiscal years the debt reduction aggregated $4,334,000,000, and in June, 1926, reached a level below twenty billions for the first time since November, 1918. The short-dated debt required to be paid or refunded in three and one-half years, which includes the third Liberty loan, amounted on June 30, 1926, to 4.7 billions, as compared with 6.1 billions at the close of the previous fiscal year. The decrease of 1.4 billions in this part of the debt has strengthened the position of the Treasury for the refunding operations necessary in connection with the third Liberty loan, which matures on September 15, 1928, and is not callable before that date.

The interest payment on the debt, the largest single item of our expenditures, amounted to $832,000,000 in 1926, as against $999,000,000 in 1921, a decrease of $167,000,000, or nearly 17 per cent. For 1927 the estimated expenditures are $785,000,000 and for 1928, $755,000,000.

The World War Foreign Debt Commission has substantially completed the duties imposed upon it by Congress. Eliminating certain debtors with which negotiations are not now practical, funding agreements have been signed with all of those nations owing the United States on account of loans made during and after the war. All of the settlements have been ratified by Congress except those with France and Jugo-Slavia, and in these cases the House of Representatives has acted but the bills are still pending in the Senate. But the French settlement has not yet been taken up by their Parliament. In general, uncertainty with respect to war debts has ended.

ALIEN PROPERTY LEGISLATION

By the Paris agreement the United States has participated officially in the restoration of Germany. Through the Federal reserve system and through our bankers and private American citizens, we have been of assistance in the progress of financial restoration of many countries in Europe. The American spirit, characteristic of construction, will, I feel sure, be an active help in further plans to put other countries in sound condition. Europe is progressing and is reaching again peace condition.

There remains still for the United States to settle a series of related questions now unanswered but which already have the attention of Congress. These questions are three, and have to do principally with Germany, although similar matters, but lesser in amount, also involve Austria and Hungary. As a war measure the President, through the Alien Property Custodian, seized the private property of enemy nationals, and to a large extent this property is still held by the custodian awaiting disposition by Congress. Under her treaty of peace with us, Germany undertook to reimburse American nationals and the United States Government for losses and damages occasioned by Germany. By the treaty the property of German nationals seized and held in this country is pledged as security for the payment of the claims of American nationals against Germany, and by arrangement between the two countries a mixed German-American commission has been constituted to pass upon the merits of the claims and is now completing its awards.

Germany's obligations to pay reparations were in excess of her immediate capacity, and her creditors devised for her reorganization a plan and method of payment a part of which accrues to the United States. This plan, in the opinion of its framers, constitutes the maximum that Germany can immediately pay to her former enemies and of necessity represents holding in abeyance some of Germany's obligations. Under this plan the amount applicable to the immediate payment of the American claims is as a practical matter inadequate. Some other way will have to be found to insure prompt payment to our nationals for their losses.

Also as a war measure the United States seized and used ships, radio stations, and patents belonging to German nationals and found in the United States. The moral obligation to return the private property or its proceeds in the hands of the Alien Property Custodian to its German owners is equally applicable to the payment of compensation for the ships, radio stations, and patents or proceeds received from their disposal. We should treat the two situations alike.

Congress should enact into law during the present session a fair and comprehensive plan for the settlement of these three questions. Without here suggesting the details of any particular plan, I believe that a correct solution of the problem is controlled by two principles. The Supreme Court of the United States has held in effect that it is within the legal rights of Congress to make such use of the property of German nationals which the United States has seized as Congress may desire. It might, therefore, apply the proceeds of this property belonging to German nationals to the payment of the obligations of the German Government to the United States and to our nationals, thus satisfying American claims. In my opinion such a course is not consistent with the American ideal of the sanctity of private property of nationals, even though their Government may be at war with us. Sound American policy is opposed to the application of the property of German nationals to the payment of the debt of their Government. This is the first principle. If the policy I have just mentioned is right, as I believe it to be, then the cost of its adoption must be borne by the whole people, and the policy can not be affirmed at the sacrifice of the rights of only a part of the people—the American claimants against Germany. The alien property is pledged as security for the payment of the American claims. If the United States deprives the American claimants of their security it can only do so fairly if it substitutes for this security practical assurance of ultimate payment of the American claims. The United States should do justice to German nationals, but it must not do justice to Germans by doing injustice to our own American nationals. This is the second principle. Within these principles I feel sure that means will be found to accomplish a solution of the questions fair to all and consistent with American policies.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

THE WHITE HOUSE, December 6, 1926.

THE CHART PRESENTATION

The chart presentation of the estimates of receipts, expenditures, and appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928, given opposite page A2, sets forth graphically the source of income and how the average dollar of the estimated expenditures and appropriations is apportioned to organization units and functions in the Budget for the fiscal year 1928.

Chart 1 exhibits the estimates of appropriations by organization units, exclusive of the Post Office Department payable from postal revenues, and gives the allocation of the average dollar to the several departments and establishments for which the appropriations are recommended. It will be seen that of the average dollar to be appropriated 0.50 cent is for the legislative establishment; 15.97 cents for independent offices, of which 14.60 cents is for the Veterans' Bureau; that 4.44 cents is for the Department of Agriculture; 8.77 cents for the Department of the Interior; 9.64 cents for the Navy Department; 11.26 cents for the War Department; 45.72 cents for the Treasury Department, of which 23.18 cents is for interest on the public debt and 17.31 cents for reduction in principal of the public debt payable from ordinary receipts; and only 3.60 cents for the Departments of Commerce, Justice, Labor, and State, the District of Columbia, and the Executive Office.

Chart 2 gives the estimates of appropriations by governmental functions and exhibits the purpose for which the average dollar is to be appropriated for the fiscal year 1928. It shows that of each dollar recommended for appropriation 3.61 cents goes for general functions; 39.97 cents for military functions, of which 17.45 cents is for national defense and 22.52 cents for military pensions, retirement pay, annuities, World War allowances, and life-insurance claims. It also shows that of the average dollar to be appropriated 14.42 cents is for civil functions, of which 1.23 cents is for promotion, regulation, and operation of marine transportation, and 5.03 cents for public works. Of the total, 42 cents of each dollar included in the estimates is for nonfunctional purposes. This includes 0.81 cent for refunds, drawbacks, and like appropriations, 17.31 cents for public-debt retirements, and 23.18 cents for interest on the public debt.

Chart 3 gives the estimates of expenditures by organization units for the fiscal year 1928. Of the average dollar to be expended it shows that 11.36 cents will be disbursed by the Veterans' Bureau; 4.28 cents by the Department of Agriculture; 0.95 cent by the Department of Commerce; 8.04 cents by the Department of the Interior; 0.72 cent by the Department of Justice; 0.27 cent by the Department of Labor; 9.15 cents by the Navy Department; 10.52 cents by the War Department; 0.34 cent by the State Department; 56.47 cents by the Treasury Department, of which 15.77 cents represents reduction in principal of public debt payable from ordinary receipts, and 21.14 cents for interest on the public debt; 1.06 cents by the District of Columbia; and but 2.06 cents to be disbursed by the legislative branch, the independent establishments other than the Veterans' Bureau and the Executive Office.

Chart 4 gives the estimate of expenditures by governmental functions. It supplies information showing for the average dollar the general end or purpose to be accomplished by the expenditures during the fiscal year 1928. Of the average dollar to be expended during that fiscal year 3.36 cents will be spent for the general functions of the Government; 34.89 cents will go for military functions, of which 16.32 cents is for national defense, and 18.57 cents for military pensions, retirement pay, annuities, World War allowances, and life-insurance claims. The chart also shows that 14.77 cents will be expended for civil functions, of which 1.48 cents goes for promotion, regulation, and operation of marine transportation, 5.51 cents for public works, and 7.78 cents for other civil functions; that 46.98 cents will be expended for nonfunctional operations, of which 4.95 cents represents refunds and drawbacks; 36.91 cents for fixed-debt charges, of which 15.77 cents is for public-debt retirements payable from ordinary receipts, 21.14 cents for interest on the public debt, and 5.12 cents for the disbursement of trust funds.

Chart 5 exhibits the estimated receipts of the Government by sources of revenue, exclusive of postal revenues for the fiscal year 1928. Of the average dollar to be received 70.48 cents comes from internal revenue, 15.95 cents will be received from customs, and 13.57 cents will be derived from miscellaneous sources, which comprise interest and discount, sale of Government property, public-domain receipts, fees, fines, penalties and forfeitures, gifts and contributions, repayments of investments, District of Columbia receipts, Panama Canal receipts, and trust-fund receipts.

The amounts which form the basis for computing the allocation of the average dollar for the estimates of appropriations by functions for the fiscal year 1928, Chart 2, are given in detail in Budget statement No. 9. The data used for the income statement, Chart 5, are supplied by Budget statement No. 6; the data for computing the average dollar for the estimated expenditures by functions, Chart 4, are given in Budget statement No. 12. The data for Chart 3, giving the average dollar allocation of the estimates of expenditures by organization units, are given in Budget statement No. 2, and similar data for Chart 1 are given in the recapitulation of estimates of appropriations.

Chart 5 does not include the estimated postal revenues for the fiscal year 1928, because such revenues are not considered receipts of the general fund.

DESCRIPTION OF GOVERNMENTAL FUNCTIONS

INTRODUCTION

A classification by governmental functions has for its purpose to set forth the general end or purposes accomplished by the expenditures made by the several organization units of the Government. Each function of government represents a service rendered directly to the people or else a service performed as a means of promoting, protecting, regulating, or administering services directly rendered.

The classification set forth on statements Nos. 9 and 12 presents, first, the general functions of the Government. These correspond closely to the main organs of government established by the Constitution. The general functions have been divided into the following:

1. Legislative,
2. Judicial,
3. Executive, and
4. General administration.

The activities and duties of each of these deal with matters in all other functional fields.

Of the specific functions, it is important in the case of the National Government to segregate clearly the expenditures for military and distinctly war purposes from expenditures for civil services. Therefore a segregation is made of the specific functions into the following classes:

1. Military functions.
2. Civil functions.
3. Nonfunctional expenditures.

The military functions represent those activities conducted for military and war purposes and include those activities of special war agencies and expenditures made by civil services arising from war conditions. These were of special importance during the recent World War, and some of them are likely to continue for an indefinite period.

The civil functions include those functions of government which have to do with the promotion of friendly relations with foreign powers; those which have to do with the conservation of social order and property; those which have to do with the conservation of natural resources and economic interests of the people; those activities which relate to the promotion and protection of health, the care and education of Indians, and the promotion of public education, educational research, and science.

The nonfunctional expenditures include certain important expenditures which are of a nonorganizational character. These are for the most part expenditures arising out of war, such as interest on and redemption of public debt, investments, refunds, and disbursement of trust funds.

The "refunds" and "investments" are segregated from other departmental expenditures because the former represents the repayment or refund of the whole or part of an amount previously received in payment of indebtedness to the United States, and the latter represents expenditures made in the purchase of notes, bonds, and other choses in action, and loans to foreign governments, railroads, and the like, which are not expenses of operation but the conversion of cash into other assets.

DEFINITIONS OF GOVERNMENTAL FUNCTIONS

For the purpose of defining the expenditures or appropriations comprehended within each general function, the following definitions are given:

DESCRIPTION OF BUDGET STATEMENTS

The Budget statements given herein supply data regarding the income and outgo of the Government, actual and prospective, during the last completed fiscal year, the year in progress, and the ensuing fiscal year. They also give financial data showing (1) the financial condition of the Treasury at the end of the last completed fiscal year (balance sheets), (2) the means by which such condition was reached (operating statements), and (3) the public-debt transactions and the condition at the close of business June 30, 1925.

Statement No. 1 is the master or key statement of the Budget. This statement, it will be seen, shows not merely the balance in the general fund at the end of the two last completed years, the estimated surplus that will exist at the end of the year in progress, and the estimated balance at the end of the ensuing fiscal year if the financial proposals contained in the Budget are adopted, but the means by which this balance has been and will be reached. It shows, in a word, the revenues and expenditures of the Government, past and prospective, for these years and exhibits the effect of these amounts in increasing or decreasing the available balance of the general fund.

In considering the showing, past and prospective, it should be noted that payments in respect to the reduction of the public debt figure among the general fund expenditures of the Government. The total amount of debt redemptions included among the general-fund expenditures during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, amounted to $872,977,572.71, of which $487,376,050.69 was required by existing law to be made from ordinary receipts, and the remainder, $385,601,522.02, represents the amount of general fund applied to the redemption of debt in addition to that now required by law to be made from ordinary receipts.

The estimated surplus of $383,079,095 for the fiscal year 1927 is reached after deducting the sum of $566,155,647 for the reduction of public debt now required by existing law to be made from ordinary receipts. Taking this item into account, it shows that the ordinary revenue exceeds all other estimated ordinary expenditures by $949,234,742, or an estimated improvement in the financial condition of the Government of this amount for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1927.

The estimated surplus of receipts of $200,703,863 for the fiscal year 1928 has been decreased by the inclusion of $563,157,626 for debt redemptions out of ordinary receipts. Adding these redemptions to the estimated surplus of receipts reported in Statement No. 1 indicates an improvement of the financial condition of the Government of $763,861,489 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928.

A feature of especial interest in this table is the manner in which expenditures have been classified with a view to bringing out the general purposes for which they have been or are to be made. They are thus first classified under four main heads: (1) Ordinary expenditures, (2) Reduction in principal of public debt payable from ordinary receipts, (3) Investment of trust funds, and (4) Interest on the public debt. The ordinary expenditures have been further subdivided to show (a) the general expenditures, by organization units; (b) the operations in special accounts; and (c) the capital outlays for rights and obligations—that is, the purchase of stock of Federal intermediate credit banks and loans to railroads.

Statement No. 2 supports Statement No. 1 and supplies the details of the expenditures made for 1926, compared with the estimates for 1927, and the proposals for 1928, by main branches or administrative divisions of the Government.

Statement No. 3 is a detailed statement showing the agencies collecting Government revenue by sources. It supplies the actual revenue items collected in 1926 and estimates of the revenue items to be collected by the several departments and other organization units during the fiscal years 1927 and 1928.

Statement No. 4 is a detailed statement of receipts, summarizing the items in Statement No. 3 by sources under organization units.

In statement No. 5, the expenditures are classified according to character rather than by organization units, as is done in statements 1 and 2. It will thus be noted that a distinction is made between those expenditures which are for the current operations of the Government, those that are of a nonadministrative character, those for construction work, including national-defense structures, and other expenditures. The importance of the distinctions here made may be seen from the fact that though the expenditure program for 1928 calls for a total expenditure of $3,572,049,214, only $980,919,365 is for the current operations of the Government. The latter sum, it will be seen, is $4,812,818 less than the corresponding item for the year in progress, 1927. Nonadministrative expenses, including such items as interest on the public debt, pensions, etc., call for the expenditure of no less than $1,537,009,970 in 1928.

Statement No. 6 also supports statement No. 1 and supplies details of the sources of revenue of the Government. It sets out in detail the sources from which the income of the Government was derived in 1926 and is expected to be derived in 1927 and 1928.

Statement No. 7 has to do with the operations of the Post Office Department and Postal Service, payable from postal revenues. Beginning with the fiscal year 1923, the departmental expenditures of the Post Office Department at Washington are also financed from the postal receipts.

This statement shows the results of the operations, which for 1926, 1927, and 1928, show a deficit and gives in detail the expenditures made and to be made out of the postal revenues. The deficiency in postal revenues, it will be noted, is carried in statement No. 1 and represents the amount of money which will need to be advanced from the general fund to meet the program recommended in the Budget for the postal establishment.

Statement No. 8 shows the transactions in various accounts, funds, and authorizations for the fiscal years concerned.

Statement No. 9 summarizes the estimates of appropriations by governmental functions for the fiscal year 1928 and the appropriations made for the fiscal year 1927. This statement sets forth the general end or purposes to be accomplished by the expenditure of the appropriations recommended, compared with the appropriations which have already been made for the fiscal year 1927. The classification given on this statement presents first the general functions of the Government. This corresponds closely to the main organs of the Government established by the Constitution. The general functions have been divided into (a) legislative, (b) judicial, (c) executive, and (d) general administration.

The specific functions are segregated to distinguish the expenditures for military and distinctly war purposes from expenditures for civil services; therefore, the segregation made in this statement divides the specific functions into (a) military functions, (b) civil functions, and (c) nonfunctional operations. This statement not only gives the amount of money recommended for appropriation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928, compared with the actual appropriations already made by Congress for the fiscal year 1927, but it also shows the percentages of the amounts allocated to the different purposes.

This statement will be found interesting and informative, showing as it does the approximate amounts devoted to important Government activities and interests.

It will be found that a total of $117,599,821.26 is carried for general functions, which include the legislative, judicial, executive, and the general administrative operations of the Government which can not be allocated to specific civil functions.

The sum of $1,301,737,565 is provided for military functions, which includes military pensions, retirement pay, annuities, and World War allowances, and national defense.

The amount recommended for national defense is divided into two classes: Army, $262,946,532; Navy, $305,214,183.

The amount provided in the Budget for military pensions and allowances includes $221,000,000 for pensions, $474,400,000 for World War allowances, and $25,942,886 for retirement pay.

The amount recommended for civil functions totals $469,467,862.41. Under this general function $11,778,120.13 is allowed for foreign relations and protection of American interests abroad; $42,064,420 for general law enforcement, which includes activities having to do with the enforcement of general laws and the administration and enforcement of special acts like the national prohibition act, the narcotic act, and the investigation and prosecution of war contract frauds; $6,820,850 for the control of currency and banking; $13,551,265 for the administration of Indian affairs; $26,169,331 for the administration of public domain, which includes those activities of the Government having to do with the care and utilization of public lands and the care and utilization of national forests; $18,545,109 for the promotion and regulation of commerce and industry, which includes the activities of the Tariff Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Patent Office, and those activities of the Departments of Agriculture and Commerce having to do with the promotion and regulation of commerce and industry; $40,141,233 for the promotion, regulation, and operation of marine transportation, which includes $12,290,000 for the Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation; $6,105,767 for the promotion and regulation of land transportation; $35,583,535 for the promotion and regulation of agriculture; $1,789,568 for the promotion and regulation of fisheries; $4,806,936 for the promotion of labor interests; $6,955,840 for immigration and naturalization; $16,554,238.28 for promotion of public health; $12,079,930 for promotion of public education; $13,295,128 for science and research; $42,784,112 for local government, including the District of Columbia; and $12,000 for civil relief.

For public works under civil functions, $163,961,400 is carried, which includes $66,247,600 for rivers and harbors proper and items of similar character; $75,000,000 for roads; $12,183,000 for Reclamation Service; $1,700,000 for railroads in Alaska; and $8,830,800 for other public improvements and Government plant additions.

Under nonfunctional appropriations is carried a total of $1,367,796,760.93, which includes $26,233,000 for refunds, losses, contingencies, and miscellaneous; $563,629,560.93 for public-debt retirements payable from ordinary receipts; $755,000,000 for interest on the public debt; and $22,934,200 for disbursement of trust funds.

Statement No. 10 summarizes the estimates of appropriations by character and objects of expenditures for the fiscal year 1928 and the appropriations made for the fiscal year 1927. It makes a distinction between those appropriations already made and herein recommended for (a) current expenses, (b) fixed charges, (c) acquisition of property, (d) payment of debt, and (e) payments for rights and obligations.

Statement No. 11 shows the expenditures of the Government, including the Postal Service, for the fiscal years 1923 to 1926, inclusive, under the same classification as appears in Statement No. 10.

Statement No. 12 gives similar data to that presented by statement No. 10. It is a summary of expenditures classified by governmental functions for the fiscal year 1928 compared with prior years. It not only gives the amount of money spent but that which it is estimated will be spent during the current fiscal year and the ensuing fiscalyear. It also furnishes the percentages allocated to the different functions of the Government. The expenditures given for the fiscal year 1926 are on the basis of warrants issued and charged to appropriation accounts—that is, warrants issued authorizing withdrawal of cash from the Treasury as reported by the Secretary of the Treasury in the "Combined statement of receipts and disbursements, balances, etc., of the United States," brought to the actual cash expenditure by an adjustment figure.

Statement No. 13 gives the appropriations recommended and appropriations made by Congress during the fiscal year 1927, compared with the fiscal year 1926, classified by organization units, including those appropriations made by Congress for which no estimates were submitted by the Chief Executive.

Statement No. 14 summarizes the estimates of appropriations for the fiscal year 1928 and appropriations for 1927. It shows the amounts and percentages applied to current operations of the Government by Government departments and offices.

Statements Nos. 15 and 16 relate to the appropriations made to July 3, 1926, for the years 1922 to 1927, inclusive.

Statement No. 17 gives the amount of annual, permanent, or other appropriations, including balances of appropriation for prior fiscal years, available for expenditure during the fiscal year in progress, 1927, as of November 1, 1926. This statement shows the total amount available for expenditure during the fiscal year 1927 to date.

Statement No. 18 is a consolidated current balance sheet; that is, it consolidates the general fund, which includes all other expendable funds, with the loan funds.

Statement No. 19 is a statement of operations of the general fund showing how the condition reported in the general-fund balance sheet was reached.

Statement No. 20 is a statement of operations of the public debt (loan) funds for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926. It shows the receipts and expenditures of the loan funds for that year.

There is a reduction in maintenance of the Executive Mansion and grounds, from $110,000 to $104,000. The remaining $375,000 involved in the reduction is due to the fact that the appropriations for 1927 provided that amount for reconstructing the roof, attic, and ceilings of the second story of the Executive Mansion, and expenses incident thereto.

These are continuing appropriations. The estimate for 1928 is to provide for continuation of the construction of memorials upon battle fields and in cemeteries in Europe in commemoration of the services of the American Expeditionary Forces, as authorized by the act of March 4, 1923. The total authorized appropriation for the projects contemplated under this act is $3,000,000, of which it is estimated $1,814,876 will have been expended up to the close of the fiscal year 1928, leaving approximately $1,000,000 to be appropriated for the completion of the projects.

ARLINGTON MEMORIAL BRIDGE COMMISSION

Appropriation for 1927	$2, 500, 000
Previous continuing appropriations	500, 000
Total for 1927	3, 000, 000
Budget estimate for 1928	2, 500, 000

The estimate of $2,500,000 for 1928 is in harmony with the authorized 10-year program for the construction of the Arlington Memorial Bridge. The authorized appropriation for the entire project, including the bridge and its approaches, is $14,750,000 extending over a period of 10 years. Of the $3,000,000 heretofore appropriated, together with the proposed appropriation for 1928, it is estimated that approximately $5,000,000 will have been expended up to the close of the fiscal year 1928, at which time the construction of the bridge will be well under way.

The appropriations of the Railroad Labor Board for 1927, amounting to $285,220, were, by the second deficiency act, approved July 3, 1926, made available for the Board of Mediation for the fiscal year 1927. No other appropriations were made for the Board of Mediation for 1927.

Included in the above amount estimated for 1928 are $100,000 for salaries and expenses of arbitration boards and $50,000 for expenses of emergency boards authorized by the railway labor act.

BOARD OF TAX APPEALS

Appropriated for 1927	$614, 224. 64
Budget estimate for 1928	570, 000. 00
Net reduction	44, 224. 64

The activities of the Board of Tax Appeals, created by the revenue act of 1924, were broadened and increased by the revenue act of 1926, which was approved on February 26, 1926, after the Budget for 1927 was transmitted to Congress. Shortly after the passage of the new revenue law provision was made for carrying on the increased work by adding $165,608.64 to the Budget estimate of $448,616 for the fiscal year 1927, and of the added amount $13,888.64 was made available for expenditure in the fiscal year 1926. The comparable amount appropriated for the fiscal year 1927 is therefore $600,336 and the net reduction in the 1928 estimates $30,336. This net reduction is to be brought about by a reorganization of the professional and clerical forces involving a reduction of approximately 18 in the personnel of the office and $17,900 in salaries, with corresponding savings in contingent and incidental expense items.

The allowance for printing and binding has been increased $3,040 to provide for issuing the decisions of the board in pamphlet and bound-volume form.

BUREAU OF EFFICIENCY

Appropriated for 1927	$210, 350
Budget estimate for 1928	210, 350

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

Appropriated for 1927	$1, 001, 592
Budget estimate for 1928	1, 002, 742
Increase	1, 150

This increase involves an increase in the contingent expenses from $38,000 to $40,350, and a decrease from $2,000 to $1,800 for expert examiners. By combining the item for employees, retirement act, with the main salary appropriation of the commission a saving of $1,000 was effected, which represents $440 for salaries and $560 for equipment and supplies.

COMMISSION OF FINE ARTS

Appropriated for 1927	$5, 295
Budget estimate for 1928	7, 300
Increase	2, 005

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

Appropriated for 1927	$32, 400
Budget estimate for 1928	42, 500
Increase	10, 100

The increase of the Budget estimate over the appropriation for 1927 involves an increase of $3,100 in the item of general expenses and $7,000 in the estimated payments to States. The increase for general expenses is necessitated by an increase in the number of applications received for water-power permits or licenses requiring investigation by the commission, and an increase in the number of permits and licenses issued requiring supervision of construction and other work performed thereunder, as well as investigation of the fiscal affairs of permittees and licensees. The increase in the amount to be paid to States is due to increased collections arising from licenses issued by the commission. These collections constitute a permanent indefinite appropriation under the provisions of the Federal water power act.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

Budget estimate for 1928	984, 350

Printing and binding is also reduced from $17,000 for 1927 to $16,500 for 1928. Minor reductions are also made in other items of general expenses. A material increase is made in the allowance for travel, the amount for 1928 being $91,097.80, as against an estimated expenditure of $62,117.80 for 1927.

GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE

There is a reduction from $3,539,410 to $3,525,000 for personal services, involving a reduction in force from 1,949 employees to 1,943; from $284,550 to $232,000 for contingent expenses; and from $36,000 to $26,000 for printing and binding.

Decrease	109, 162

This involves reductions from $505,483 to $480,136 for the operation of the Government hotels; from $47,700 to $43,300, salaries; from $5,500 to $5,000, contingent expenses; from $1,000 to $800, printing and binding; from $32,000 to $29,000, collections; from $1,400 to $1,000, maintenance unsold property; from $6,000 to $5,000 for the foreclosure of mortgages and the elimination of $74,315 ground rent to Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, the property having been purchased by the Government.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

Appropriated for 1927	$6, 153, 157
Budget estimate for 1928	6, 104, 967
Net reduction	48, 190

To the amount appropriated for the Interstate Commerce Commission for the fiscal year 1927, as above stated, should be added $546,680.97 made available for expenditure in that year from appropriations for previous years. The comparable amount available for expenditure in the fiscal year 1927 is therefore $6,699,837.97 and the net reduction in the 1928 estimates is $594,870.97.

For the general work involved in the execution of laws to regulate commerce $2,376,939 is allowed, which is $58,279 over the appropriation for 1927. This is made up, on the one hand, of an increase of approximately $67,000 in the rental of the building occupied by the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, and provision for four additional attorneys to be employed on formal complaints, and, on the other hand, of a reduction of approximately $36,000 in the gross amount allowed for personal services, which is made possible by taking advantage of the amount which will possibly accrue during the year by reason of salary lapses due to vacancies, leave of absence without pay, and like causes.

For the work in connection with the investigation of accounts of carriers $1,023,205 is allowed, which is a reduction of $12,064 under the appropriation for 1927 and $276,064 less than is authorized to be expended in that year, including $264,000 unexpended balance from 1926 brought forward. As this unexpended balance will be used, if at all, for temporary employments and incidental travel and per diem, it is necessary only to refer to the reduction of $12,064. The present force on accounts work is made up of 280 persons at salaries aggregating $796,270. It is proposed to reduce the force to 267 persons, but to increase the salaries of those remaining to $816,055. From this latter amount is deducted possible salary lapses estimated at $13,908, resulting in a net increase in salary payments of $5,777. This is more than overcome, however, and the net reduction of $12,064 effected, by means of decreased allowances for supplies, travel, and other incidental items.

For the related activities of safety-device inspection, signal and train control devices, and locomotive inspection the aggregate allowances for 1928 are $29,230 in excess of the appropriations for 1927. This is made up of $42,704 increase in allowance for subsistence expenses of employees on a travel status to conform to the new uniform travel regulation recently adopted and a reduction of $13,474 for possible salary lapses.

The allowance for the valuation of property of carriers is $1,306,325, which is $121,635 less than the appropriation for 1927 and $404,315.97 less than is authorized to be expended in that year, including $282,680.97 unexpended balance brought forward from previous years. The amount allowed conforms to the estimate of funds previously made for the last year of the three-year program for finishing this valuation work, including recapture work and work under "Order No. 3," as follows:

Completing the primary valuation	$915, 264
Recapture work	253, 600
Work under "Order No. 3"	137, 350
	1, 306, 214

In arriving at the allowance of $1,306,325 this $1,306,214 was augmented by $28,000 for increased subsistence allowance for employees on a travel status and reduced by $27,889 for possible salary lapses.

The allowance for printing and binding is $150,000, which is a reduction of $10,000 below the appropriation for 1927.

Of this net increase of $4,851,997, $2,500,000 is due to an increase in the estimate for the construction of forest roads and trails from $5,000,000 to $7,500,000. This increase, however, does not contemplate an increase in the forest road construction program but merely enables the department to meet obligations arising under existing congressional "authorizations." The remainder of the net increase for the department, $2,351,997, involves the following principal increases and reductions: Reduction of $35,000 due to an appropriation in 1927 to purchase land at Beltsville, Md.; a reduction from $195,366 to $180,366 for rent of buildings in the District of Columbia; a reduction of $200,000 for printing and binding due to an additional amount provided in 1927 for distribution of publications entitled "Diseases of the Horse" and "Diseases of Cattle"; an increase from $1,440,000 to $1,920,000 for the more complete endowment of agricultural experiment stations pursuant to the Purnell Act, which authorizes for the fiscal year 1928 an increase of $10,000 to each State; a reduction of $38,000, due to an appropriation in 1927 for the erection of a Weather Bureau building at Lansing, Mich.; an increase from $179,400 to $218,000 for supplying information regarding weather conditions affecting aviation, in accordance with the air commerce act of 1926; an increase from $630,000 to $640,000 for inspection and quarantine of animals; an increase from $4,653,000 to $5,853,000 for the eradication of tuberculosis in animals; a reduction from $699,450 to $675,000 for eradicating cattle ticks; an increase from $350,080 to $365,000 for animal husbandry; an increase from $408,544 to $430,244 for general expenses, Bureau of Dairy Industry; an increase from $108,095 to $120,000 for forest pathology for development and establishment of chestnut trees in the United States which are resistant to the so-called "chestnut blight" in order to insure a supply of tannin used in the tanning of leather; a reduction from $375,000 to $350,000 for eradication of barberry; an increase from $3,007,973 to $3,135,000 for increased fire protection and administration of national forests; an increase from $403,264 to $443,264 for the investigation and experiments to promote economy in the use of forest products; an increase from $131,700 to $150,000 for planting trees in national forests; an increase from $250,000 to $310,000 to determine the best methods for the conservative management of forests and forest lands and for the establishment of one forest experiment station in Pennsylvania and one in the Ohio and Mississippi Valley authorized by the acts approved July 3, 1926; a reduction from $670,000 to $650,000 for preventing the spread of moths; an increase from $485,000 to $685,000 for preventing the spread of the European corn borer; an increase from $285,000 to $440,000 for Japanese beetle control; an increase from $90,000 to $100,000 for protection of fur-bearing animals and enforcement of the Alaska game law; an increase from $353,755 to $365,000 for the inspection of perishable foods; an increase from $598,940 to $610,000 for enforcement of the grain standards act; an increase from $205,060

to $220,000 for the administration of the warehouse act; an increase from $425,000 to $450,000 for the enforcement of the plant quarantine act; a reduction from $300,000 to $250,000 for the eradication of the pink boll worm of cotton; an increase of $35,000 for the Thurberia weevil quarantine; a reduction from $440,000 to $420,000 for enforcement of the packers and stockyards act; an increase from $121,530 to $135,000 for enforcement of the grain futures act; an increase from $25,000 to $35,000 for the enforcement of the naval stores act; an increase from $710,000 to $1,000,000 for cooperation with States in forest fire protection, as provided for by the Clarke-McNary Act; an increase from $50,000 to $60,000 for cooperative farm forestry; a new item of $25,000 for a dairying and livestock experiment station authorized to be established at Mandan, N. Dak., and a reduction of $20,000 due to an appropriation for that amount which was made in 1927 for the World's Poultry Congress. The estimates also provide for reductions aggregating $54,484 from appropriations for "salaries" of the various bureaus and offices of the department.

The estimates for 1928 provide for a reorganization of the Bureau of Chemistry, the Bureau of Soils, the Insecticide and Fungicide Board, and the soil fertility and plant nutrition activities of the Bureau of Plant Industry into a research unit designated the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils and a regulatory unit designated the Food, Drug, and Insecticide Administration. No additional funds are included for these new organizations.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Budget estimate for 1928	35,240,430
Net increase	4,607,583

The net increase of $4,607,583 for the department includes an increase in the appropriations for the office of the Secretary of $3,630,619, or from $2,825,231 to $6,455,850, made up as follows: Salaries, $254,500 to $285,600; contingent expenses, $262,000 to $270,000; printing and binding, $1,688,231 to $1,815,000; aircraft in commerce, $250,000 to $796,250; air navigation facilities, $300,000 to $3,219,500. The increases under the last two items are made for the purpose of enabling the department to carry out more fully the program contemplated by the air commerce act with respect to research and development, inspection and registration of aircraft, licensing of pilots, and establishing and operating aids to air navigation.

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce receives an increase from $3,263,357 to $3,442,297 as follows: For additional commercial attaché offices, $335,000 to $385,000; for promoting commerce in South and Central America, $333,090 to $358,090; in the Far East, $290,000 to $300,000; in Europe and other areas, $472,350 to $509,880; for extending the district office service, $330,000 to $365,000; and for the further development of domestic commerce. $165,000 to $189,160.

The increase from $1,974,000 to $2,118,200 for the Bureau of the Census will provide the appropriation for collecting statistics, an increase of $127,000, from $931,000 to $1,058,000, to cover additional canvasses to be made in 1928. Salary promotions amounting to $7,000 are also made possible by an increase from $993,000 to $1,000,000 and an increase from $50,000 to $60,200 will allow increased construction of tabulating machines to be used in taking the next decennial census. The increase in the Steamboat Inspection Service from $1,062,670 to $1,080,060 will place a supervising inspector at Pittsburgh at $3,800 and add $14,550 for the increased travel costs of the service. The net decrease from $650,100 to $537,020 for the Bureau of Navigation follows a reduction of the department's responsibility for the enforcement of wireless communication laws in accordance with a recent decision of the Attorney General and the resulting decrease for this item is from $335,000 to $220,000.

In the increase for the Bureau of Standards from $1,940,385 to $2,175,000 are involved an allowance of $200,000 for the erection of a new power-plant building recently authorized; an increase in the salaries appropriation from $567,320 to $572,060 to permit additional personnel; for testing structural materials, $230,000 to $240,000; for investigation of textiles, $35,000 to $40,700; for sugar standardization, $38,160 to $48,160, to provide for the further prosecution of investigational work in levulose; for metallurgical research, $43,140 to $48,140; for testing railroad and other scales, $39,000 to $47,000, to enable the operation of the master track scale now being installed in Chicago; for standardization of equipment, $115,000 to $130,000; for investigational work in radioactive substances, $9,540 to $29,540, which will help to formulate standard specifications for the treatment of disease by X rays; and an allowance of $5,000 for the investigation and standardization of dental materials. An appropriation of $50,000 for 1927 for installation of a master track scale is not needed for 1928 and the funds thus saved make possible many of the above increases.

Allowances for the Lighthouse Service receive an increase from $10,154,481 to $10,644,250. The bureau personnel is increased from $89,880 to $94,250; general expenses from $4,240,000 to $4,275,000; salaries, lighthouse vessels, from $2,245,000 to $2,273,000, to provide for operation of new light vessel to be put in commission and for minor salary increases; the salaries of superintendents and clerks are increased from $565,000 to $570,000 for the employment of three additional watchmen at lighthouse depots. Retired pay receives an increase from $160,000 to $225,000, and salaries of lighthouse keepers is reduced from $1,970,000 to $1,960,000 due to the installation of automatic lights. An increase from $350,000 to $609,000 is provided for the construction and equipment of two new light vessels and the conversion of a lighthouse tender to an oil burner, and an increase from $484,601 to $638,000 for establishing and improving other aids to navigation.

The net increase from $2,336,670 to $2,338,590 for the Coast and Geodetic Survey involves the omission of estimates of $5,000 and $1,000, respectively, for replacement of magnetic observatory at Tucson, Ariz., and for Hawaiian triangulation, no longer needed. There is a decrease from $67,100 to $65,000 for general expenses and an increase from $425,000 to $436,520 for office salaries.

The increase of $1,315, from $1,789,253 to $1,790,568 for the Bureau of Fisheries is larger than it appears inasmuch as the following specific projects were included in the 1927 appropriations that do not need to be provided for in 1928: Lake Worth, Tex., fish cultural station, $18,000; construction work at La Crosse, Wis., station, $4,000; equipment for patrol boat Brant, $25,000; transportation of supplies to Pribilof Islands, $28,000; Warm Springs, Ga., fish cultural station, $30,000; Colorado fish cultural station, $20,000; patrol vessel for Alaskan waters, $50,000. The actual increase is therefore $176,315 distributed mainly as follows: Employees at fish cultural stations, $255,270 to $260,000; biological stations, $39,000 to $40,860; employees Atlantic coast vessels, $33,000 to $42,800; crews of Alaskan vessels, $53,070 to $65,970; maintenance of vessels, $95,000 (exclusive of special project) to $140,000; fish propagation, $405,000 (exclusive of special projects) to $427,000; scientific inquiry $57,475 to $67,000, including $10,000 for investigating decrease in food fishes along mid-Atlantic coast; protecting seal and salmon fisheries of Alaska, $312,000 (exclusive of transportation) to $322,000; new vessel for Alaskan fisheries, $60,000.

The increase from $2,722,300 to $2,797,300 for the Patent Office is further augmented by $20,000 that was charged against the 1927 appropriation for a specific project. An increase from $25,000 to $75,000 is provided for additional junior patent examiners and from $20,000 to $65,000 for steel filing cases.

There is an apparent decrease for the Bureau of Mines from $1,914,400 to $1,861,060, but the 1927 appropriation included an item of $89,000 for oil shale investigation not to be carried on in 1928, also $5,240 for specific work henceforth to be performed by the Bureau of Standards. There is an actual increase, therefore, of $40,900. The estimates contemplate a new division in the bureau for the promotion of mineral commerce to which transfers from other appropriations are made as follows: Investigating mine accidents, $15,370; mineral mining investigations, $49,090; oil, gas, and oil shale investigations, $7,500; mineral resources, $123,000; and the total is further augmented by an increase of $30,040, making the allowance for mineral commerce $225,000. Considering the above transfers, investigating mine accidents is increased from $388,130 to $390,630. An increase from $64,320 to $71,360 is also provided for the care and maintenance of buildings at the Pittsburgh plant.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Budget estimate for 1928	285, 717, 596
Increase	32, 755, 278

The increase for 1928, of $32,755,278, is caused by the increased pension rates of the Spanish War and the Civil War pension laws enacted at the close of the last session. On July 1, 1926, there were 501,723 pensioners. The appropriation of $192,000,000 for Army and Navy pensions for 1927 was made prior to the enactment of the above-mentioned laws, and it is now believed that an additional amount of $41,000,000 will be required for Army and Navy pensions during 1927. Upon this basis for 1927, there is a decrease of $8,244,722 in the estimates for the Department of the Interior for 1928.

The estimates for the General Land Office were reduced to $2,297,550 from the 1927 appropriations of $2,342,300, through some decreases in amounts for field activities and other decreases proposed to be effected by the consolidation or elimination of certain expense items. Estimates for the Bureau of Indian Affairs represent a reduction from $12,901,160 to $12,576,265, although they provide increases in items for education and for health work among the Indians. The estimates for the National Park Service show a decrease from $3,698,920 to $3,277,105, the amount to be made available for payment of contractual obligations on account of road and trail construction being decreased from $2,000,000 to $1,500,000, with the amount of $1,500,000 to be authorized for new contractual obligations in 1928 remaining the same as for 1927. Increases are provided, however, in several of the park items for administration, protection, and improvement. The estimates for the Territorial governments, including the same amount for the Alaska Railroad as was appropriated for 1927, are reduced from $1,995,708 to $1,920,200, due to the fact that appropriations for legislative expenses are made biennially, and that none will be required in 1928.

The estimated amounts required under various permanent and indefinite appropriations are reduced from $25,638,900 to $25,179,000.

Estimates for the Bureau of Reclamation show an increase over the appropriations for 1927, from $7,556,000 to $12,183,000. Certain questions of reclamation policy have been under consideration by Congress for the last two years, and during that time construction of new projects, or of new divisions of existing projects, has been largely held in abeyance. With the determination of these policies at the last session of Congress, it is now proposed to proceed with authorized new construction in the amounts estimated for that purpose for 1928. The estimate for printing for the Geological Survey is increased from $92,000 for 1927 to $120,000 for 1928, to provide for the printing of accumulated reports. The estimates for other expenditures of the Geological Survey are increased from $1,819,440 to $1,857,580, involving an increase in the item for topographic surveys from $451,700 to $515,000, and decreases in certain other items. The amount for the Bureau of Education is increased from $864,100 to $921,220, by reason of a new item for an investigation of land-grant colleges. The amount for the Columbia Institution for the Deaf is increased from $113,400 to $128,000, for improvements to the light and power plant. To provide for the construction of a girls' dormitory, at a cost of $150,000, the estimate for Howard University is increased from $218,000 to $368,000. The amount for Freedmen's Hospital is increased from $166,390 to $188,856, to provide for new laundry machinery.

The net decrease of $9,246,475, mentioning the principal items of importance, involves increases for Naval Reserve from $3,820,860 to $3,850,000 (also $235,000 for new planes for the reserve is carried under aviation); for ordnance and ordnance stores from $10,625,000 to $11,450,000; for purchase and manufacture of smokeless powder from $772,000 to $1,000,000; for pay of the Navy from $119,863,500 to $124,300,000 (including a new item for outfits on first enlistment involving $2,300,000); for provisions, Navy, from $19,207,000 to $19,430,000; for aviation from $19,065,288 to $19,790,000 (plus $900,000 increase in contract authorization—$5,000,000 for 1928 as against $4,100,000 for 1927—also includes $235,000 for purchase of planes for the Naval Reserve); for pay, Marine Corps, from $14,970,347 to $15,031,900; and reductions for transportation and recruiting, Bureau of Navigation, from $4,664,000 to $4,500,000; for engineering from $19,150,000 to $18,800,000; for construction and repair of vessels from $16,950,000 to $16,600,000; for maintenance, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, from $9,500,000 to $9,400,000; for fuel and transportation from $13,950,000 to $12,000,000; for maintenance, Bureau of Yards and Docks, from $7,000,000 to $6,900,000; for public works from $2,735,300 to $1,867,500; for general expenses, Marine Corps, from $8,090,000 to $7,939,000; for major alterations of vessels from $7,500,000 to $2,210,000; for increase of the Navy from $33,275,000 ($28,275,000 direct appropriation and $5,000,000 transferred from the naval supply account fund) to $27,250,000 ($23,250,000 direct appropriation and $4,000,000 to be transferred from the naval supply account fund)

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

Net increase	19, 163, 812

The Post Office Department must accept mail matter for transmission whenever and wherever it is offered. The volume of mail handled by the Postal Service is constantly increasing, as is evidenced by the increase in postal revenues. In these circumstances an increase in the expenses of the service is inevitable if the mails are to be handled efficiently and expeditiously.

In reviewing the department's estimates of appropriations for the purpose of preparing the Budget the requirements of good service are given first consideration. A secondary but important consideration is that the contemplated expenditures should not exceed the estimated revenues, and if this is not possible, then the expenditure allowances should be kept as near as possible to the prospective income.

In Budget statement No. 6 it will be found that the estimated postal revenues for the fiscal year 1928 are approximately 6 per cent in excess of the estimated revenues for the fiscal year 1927. It will also be found that the estimated expenditures for 1928 are approximately 4.25 per cent in excess of the estimated expenditures for 1927. This spread of 1.75 per cent will result in reducing the estimated deficiency in the postal revenues in 1927 by more than half, and if the same conditions can be carried into the fiscal year 1929 there is good ground for indulging the hope that the postal deficiency, which in the fiscal year 1926 amounted to more than $35,000,000, will be eliminated.

If this desirable result is accomplished it will not be at the expense of good service. The net increase of $19,163,812 for 1928 above stated is made up of numerous increases in allowances for activities affected by the greater volume of mail to be handled, and some decreases in other allowances where the demands on the service will not be so great or substantial savings will be made possible as the result of economies in administration.

The more important of these increases and decreases are as follows:

An increase of $74,740 in the allowance for departmental salaries so as to provide for seven additional employees (including an assistant chief inspector), and for promotions to the staff which will result in advancing the average salaries paid nearer, but still substantially under, the average of the respective grades.

A decrease of $45,000 in the expense of transporting supplies, due to better methods of routing traffic.

Increases of $9,150,000 in the item for salaries of clerks in first and second class post offices, and $5,860,000 in the salaries of city delivery carriers, to provide for automatic promotions authorized by law and for additions to the force.

An increase of $1,605,000 in the item for rent, light, and fuel, to provide for additional quarters and space needed for handling the mails and for increased rentals in the renewal of existing leases.

Decreases of $300,000 in the expense of village delivery service, and $200,000 in special delivery fees, due to lessened demand for these classes of service.

An increase of $1,605,463 in the cost of the vehicle service, for the purchase of new trucks needed and increased cost of gasoline and repair parts.

A decrease of $2,000,000 in the payments for inland transportation of the mails by railroads, due to an overestimate by the Post Office Department in 1927 of the requirements for this class of transportation, the appropriation for which in that year amounted to $113,500,000.

An increase of $995,879 in the allowance for salaries of railway-mail clerks, to provide for automatic promotions and additions to the force.

An increase of $700,000 for ocean transportation of mails for foreign countries, due to normal increase in this class of mail, and including $125,000 in contracts formerly paid from the appropriation for "Power-boat service," for which a corresponding reduction has been made in this item.

An increase of $150,000 in the cost of manufacturing stamped paper, to provide for the collection of the growing revenues.

A decrease of $350,000 in the allowance for the payment of indemnities for the loss or damage of domestic mails, due to a marked reduction in the number and amount of claims filed as the result of better protection given insured parcel-post mail, including the taking of receipts on delivery.

A decrease of $69,000 in the allowance for the purchase of stationery, due to economies in use of supplies and reduced prices.

An increase of $300,000 in the provision for star-route service, attributed to the normal growth of this service.

A reduction of $20,000 in the provision for the manufacture of mail bags and equipment, due to a reduction in the number of locks needed.

A reduction of $94,000 in the allowance for the Rural Delivery Service, made possible by the consolidation of routes, but without affecting provisions for additional routes to take care of new business.

The Foreign Service buildings act of 1926, providing for the acquisition of buildings and grounds in foreign countries for use of the Government of the United States, authorizes an appropriation of $10,000,000 with the restriction that not more than $2,000,000 shall be appropriated for any one year. An amount of $435,000 was appropriated for 1927, available until expended, which will be sufficient until the Foreign Service buildings commission meets and definite conclusions and recommendations are reached as to the requirement for additional funds.

There is also omitted from the Budget estimate for 1928 an item of $5,000,000 for the payment to the Republic of Colombia. Under the treaty of April 6, 1914, the United States agreed to pay to the Republic of Colombia for the settlement of differences arising out of events which took place on the Isthmus of Panama in November, 1903, $25,000,000 in gold, United States money, $5,000,000 to be paid within six months after exchange of ratifications of the treaty and the remaining $20,000,000 to be paid in four annual installments of $5,000,000 each. The last installment was included in the annual appropriation act for 1927, and payment was made to the Republic of Colombia on September 1, 1926.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT

(Exclusive of interest on and retirement of the public debt)

Appropriated for 1927	$176, 637, 465. 63
Budget estimate for 1928	170, 468, 453. 00
Net reduction	6, 169, 012. 63

The wide range of activities which make up the Treasury organization renders it impracticable to comment on its affairs in a general way. In this synopsis, therefore, the comparisons made are based upon groups of items pertaining to the principal branches of the Treasury service.

The summary above shows a net reduction in the Budget estimates for 1928 compared with appropriations for 1927 of $6,169,012.63, but the estimates do not include provisions for the purchase of sites and construction of buildings under the authorities contained in the public building bill passed at the last session of Congress. Owing to the vast amount of preliminary work to be done by the Treasury and Post Office Departments before the amount that will be needed in 1928 can be determined, formal estimates have not as yet been submitted to the Budget Bureau and it is proposed to handle them later on as supplementary items. It is anticipated that the amount requested will be approximately $20,000,000. On this basis there will be a net increase in the Treasury estimates for 1928 of $13,830,988, instead of a net reduction of $6,169,012.

The principal factors involved in the net reduction, in respect to the branches of the service involved, are as follows:

PUBLIC DEBT SERVICE

A decrease of $50,000 in the cost of current operations, due to decrease in work in connection with United States currency, bonds, and other securities.

A decrease of $35,279 in the provision for purchase of distinctive paper used in the production of United States paper currency, made possible by a marked reduction in spoilage incident to manufacture. The amount allowed for the purchase of the paper, $1,421,715, includes provision for the completion of a three-year program for establishing a currency reserve of 320,000,000 notes—120,000,000 notes for a so-called "manufacturing" reserve, i. e., allowing for an interim of approximately one month between the printing of the back and the printing of the face of the note and another month before the completed note is put into circulation; and 200,000,000 notes for a "vault" reserve to be used only in an emergency. Under conditions prevailing before this program was adopted our paper currency was put into circulation immediately after printing, while still "green" and before the ink used thereon had had an opportunity to oxidize. As a result the life of the bills was materially reduced and they were soon returned to the Treasury for redemption. The expense incident to setting up this note reserve will not recur; moreover, it is a measure of economy in that relatively speaking a much less number of notes will have to be printed in the future.

A decrease of $305,500 in the indefinite appropriation for preparation and issue of Federal reserve notes, due to a lessened demand for the printing of this class of currency.

CUSTOMS SERVICE

An increase of approximately $400,000 in the general expenses incident to collecting the customs revenue, specifically to provide for increases in pay to the staff both in Washington and in the field.

An increase of $5,000,000 in the indefinite appropriation item of debentures or drawbacks, due to increased exports of manufactured articles.

A decrease of $600,000 in the indefinite appropriation item for refunds of excessive duties, evidencing more efficient work in the examination of merchandise.

DIVISION OF SUPPLY

Providing specifically for the expenses of maintaining the Division of Supply, the work of which is now carried on by clerks detailed from other bureaus and offices. The amount allowed for the new division is $169,400, with corresponding reductions aggregating $179,680 in the estimates of the bureaus and offices now carrying the detailed force on their pay rolls.

Decreases of $10,000 in the amount allowed for stationery for departmental use and $15,000 in the amount allowed for printing, made possible by economies in administration.

BUREAU OF THE BUDGET

A decrease of $7,000 in the expenses of maintenance.

FEDERAL FARM LOAN BOARD

An increase of $25,000 in the provision for miscellaneous expenses, due to making provision for the payment by the board, from the fund derived from assessment on the banks, of the expenses of registrar's offices heretofore paid direct by the banks contrary to law.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE

A decrease of $370,000 in the amount allowed for collecting the internal revenue, due to decrease in work.

An increase of $225,000 in the indefinite appropriation for redemption of internal-revenue stamps, made necessary by changes in the new revenue law.

COAST GUARD

An increase of $23,250 for salaries of the departmental staff in Washington to provide for increased work due to additions to the fleet.

An increase of $1,123,813 in the general expenses of maintenance and operation, principally to provide for manning and equipping on a full yearly basis in 1928 the additional vessels and seaplanes provided for in 1927 on an 11-month basis.

An increase of $1,366,000 to provide for the construction of new Coast Guard vessels. Under an act passed at the last session of Congress authority was given the Secretary of the Treasury to construct 10 new first-class cutters. These vessels will cost $900,000 each. In the second deficiency act, fiscal year 1926, $1,000,000 was appropriated for beginning the construction of three of these cutters, to remain available until June 30, 1928, and authority was given to place contracts for the completion of the vessels. The estimates for 1928 provide $2,366,000 for completing these three cutters and beginning two more.

An increase of $231,590 for repairs to Coast Guard vessels, due to additional vessels being added to the fleet.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING

A decrease of $514,810 in the provision for the production activities of the bureau, due principally to a marked reduction in the number of internal-revenue stamps to be printed and an equally marked reduction in the percentage of spoilage incident to manufacture of paper currency. For a number of years the number of sheets spoiled in the manufacturing processes has averaged 5 per cent. In the year just passed this percentage has been reduced at times to less than 2 per cent. In the estimates for 1928 the allowance for spoilage is fixed at 3½ per cent.

SECRET SERVICE DIVISION

An increase of $35,000 in the allowance for suppressing counterfeiting and other crimes, in order to effect a reorganization of the service, some of the present field districts either being undermanned or covering too much territory for efficient management.

PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

Increases of $25,000 in the provision for the pay of commissioned officers and pharmacists, necessary to provide for additional amounts required for retired and longevity pay, and $75,000 in the allowance for pay of personnel and maintenance of hospitals, due principally to additional expenses incident to examination of aliens abroad.

A reduction of $10,000 in the provision for pay of other employees, made possible by economies in administration.

A reduction of $30,000 in the funds allowed for preventing the spread of epidemic diseases, due to the fact that unless some unexpected outbreak occurs in 1928 there will be no need for the extraordinary expenditures in this line of work.

MINTS AND ASSAY OFFICES

A decrease of $24,960 in the expense of operating mints and assay offices, due principally to the recommended discontinuance of the Carson City Mint and the Deadwood assay office, and to decreased work and economies in administration at other places.

SUPERVISING ARCHITECT

In line with the enlarged activities of the Supervising Architect's Office under the provisions of the public buildings law, increases in the group of items for that office have been allowed to provide for new buildings and for current expenses, as follows: $80,000 for repairs and preservation of public buildings, $18,300 for mechanical equipment, $40,000 for vaults and safes, $14,510 for general expenses, $150,000 for operating force, $25,000 for furniture and repairs, and $38,500 for operating supplies.

A reduction of $50,000 has been made in the provision for outside professional services, as it is believed that the appropriation of $150,000 for this purpose for the fiscal year 1927 will be in excess of requirements.

The amount estimated for the maintenance and operation of the Regular Army will provide for a maximum force of 12,000 commissioned officers, with an average of 11,961, and an average enlisted strength throughout the year of 115,000, exclusive of the Philippine Scouts for which an average enlisted strength of 6,882 is provided. It will also provide for the training of 12,572 reserve officers for a period of two weeks and of 352 reserve officers for periods varying from one month to one year; for the attendance of 30,000 men at citizens' military training camps; for an enrollment of 116,141 students in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps units; and for the maintenance of the National Guard at an average strength throughout the year of approximately 180,000.

The Budget estimate also provides for essentials connected with the maintenance and operation of active military posts, camps, and stations as now constituted, the estimates for 1928 for the three principal activities falling within this classification, namely, barracks and quarters, water and sewers, and roads, walks, wharves, and drainage, amounting to a total of $8,734,781, an increase of $1,664,909 over the appropriation for 1927. For new construction at military posts of barracks and quarters, with utilities and appurtanances thereto, there is carried in the Budget estimate the sum of $8,600,000. Of this sum, $7,200,000 is chargeable against the "Military post construction fund" created by the act of March 12, 1926, and the balance, $1,400,000, is submitted for direct appropriation to provide funds for new construction in excess of those which will be available for this purpose in the "Military post construction fund" in order to initiate the expansion of the Air Corps under the provisions of the act of July 2, 1926. There is included in the estimate of $8,600,000 a total of $2,382,000 for new construction at strictly Air Corps posts.

Provision is made for necessary Army transportation, including the operation of the Army transport service; for the purchase of 500 horses and 725 mules for the Army as replacements; for the maintenance in part of war reserves; for the surveillance of and protection of stocks of ammunition to prevent deterioration and spontaneous combustion; for the continued operation of Army laundries at general hospitals, the Disciplinary Barracks, and at various camps, posts, and stations; for the upkeep of existing fortifications and accessories, and for carrying forward the general plan for the protection of the Panama Canal.

For the Air Corps $24,396,300 is estimated, $20,396,300 being for direct appropriation and $4,000,000 for obligation by contract, there being included in these figures the sum of $10,492,550 for the procurement of airplanes, their spare parts, and accessories. In addition the Budget estimate makes indirect provision for the Air Corps to the extent of approximately $19,000,000, various sums aggregating this amount being included in the estimates submitted for the pay and supply branches of the Army for the maintenance and operation and expansion of the Air Corps. There is also included in the Budget estimate for the National Guard the sum of $787,500 for the procurement of airplanes, their spare parts, and accessories.

For the United States Military Academy provision is made for the essentials connected with its maintenance and operation, and $500,000 is provided for continuing the construction of a new cadet mess hall, dormitory, cadet store, and drawing academy.

Funds recommended will care for the various nonmilitary activities of the War Department, such as national cemeteries, national military parks, national monuments and memorials, and the Alaska cable and telegraph system, and will maintain existing roads, bridges, and trails in Alaska.

For rivers and harbors $50,000,000 is estimated for the maintenance and improvement of existing river and harbor works, in addition to $5,497,600 which will be available from permanent specific and indefinite appropriations. For flood control on the Mississippi and Sacramento Rivers, $10,000,000 and $400,000, respectively, are estimated. For the maintenance and operation of Dam No. 2, Muscle Shoals, Ala., including its hydroelectric power plant, $300,000 is estimated. This plant is being operated and the power generated sold to private interests, producing a net annual revenue of approximately $684,000, which is deposited in the Treasury to the credit of miscellaneous receipts. The total provided for all items of river and harbor work is $66,347,600.

NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS

Appropriated for 1927	$8,255,100
Budget estimate for 1928	8,319,532
Increase	64,432

The Budget estimate will provide for the essentials connected with the maintenance and operation of the 10 homes and for aid to State homes.

PANAMA CANAL

Appropriated for 1927	$7,656,074
Budget estimate for 1928	7,600,000
Decrease	56,074

The Budget estimate provides for essentials necessary for the maintenance and operation of the canal and for the sanitation and civil government of the Canal Zone, and, in addition, provides for certain capital additions, including $150,000 for continuing the construction of permanent quarters, $450,000 (plus $109,000 appropriated for the fiscal year 1927) for a new municipal building at Cristobal, and $40,000 for construction and repair of sidewalks and highways.

In connection with Budget estimates for maintaining and operating this great national asset the following information is of interest: The investment in the canal and its adjuncts is partly for national defense and partly commercial. To June 30, 1926, the investment charged to national defense was $112,662,732 and to commercial use $267,581,705, the total investment being $380,244,437, which is exclusive of fortifications, military posts, and submarine bases. The total gross revenues to June 30, 1926, amounted to $277,960,263, derived from tolls, taxes, and business operations. Deducting from this the expenses incident to transiting vessels through the canal, $86,079,929, and expenses connected with business operations, $128,414,088, which includes the value of services, supplies, and materials sold, we get a net revenue, excluding interest on the investment, of $63,466,246. Of this, $58,393,183 was from tolls and taxes and $5,073,063 from business operations. Included in the expense account for the canal are fixed annual charges of $655,370 for depreciation and amortization of canal fixed property and $500,000 for depreciation on canal equipment. The amount of tolls collected has increased from $5,627,463 in 1917 to $22,931,055 in 1926.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Appropriations for 1927	$36, 532, 128
Budget estimate for 1928	38, 519, 869
Increase	1, 987, 741

The items comprised within the caption "Salaries, etc., District of Columbia," are increased from $1,735,300 to $2,000,110. The increase of $264,810 is explained as follows: New items representing $75,120 for the office of the register of wills and $110,000 for the recorder of deeds are required by the act of April 24, 1926, which provided that beginning with the fiscal year 1928 the fees collected by those offices would be deposited in the Treasury to the credit of the District revenues and the expenses of the offices would be covered by direct appropriations. Similarly the items for the Free Public Library are increased by $16,000 on account of the act of April 1, 1926, which provided that beginning with July 1, 1927, revenues from book fines, theretofore available for expenditure, would be covered into the Treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia. Further increases of $13,300 were allowed for additional personnel and equipment and for rent of the branch library in Chevy Chase. A reduction of $15,000 was made, however, in the item for repairs to buildings, due to the fact that major repairs costing that amount at the central library building will be completed during the present fiscal year. The amount for salaries in the assessor's office is increased by $17,820 to provide nine additional employees on account of the additional work involved in carrying out the provisions of the act of July 3, 1926, requiring annual assessments of real property. The difference between the amount of the foregoing increases and the total increase under the caption "Salaries, etc., District of Columbia," represents proposed salary increases within grades based upon efficiency ratings.

For 1927 the appropriation for paving and repaving roads and streets payable directly from the District revenues is $284,300; for paving and repaving roads and streets payable out of the gasoline-tax fund (including the amount made available for the last few months of the fiscal year 1926), is $1,120,000; and the amount for street and road repairs is $1,000,000; amounting in all to $2,404,300. For 1928 the amounts recommended for the above items in the order given are $150,000, $1,350,000, and $900,000, totaling $2,400,000. For repairs to suburban roads an increase is proposed from $295,000 to $310,000. The 1928 estimates contain a new item of $250,000 for replacement of the M Street Bridge over Rock Creek, authorized by the act of July 3, 1926, and of $18,000 for reconstruction of the bridge over Rock Creek at Military Road. The item for construction and repair of bridges is increased from $40,000 to $50,000. For trees and parking an increase from $78,000 to $90,000 is proposed.

An increase is recommended in the amount for sewers from $1,447,000 to $1,601,500. This includes a new item of $60,000 for beginning construction of the upper Anacostia main interceptor along the Anacostia River between Benning Road and the District line, and provides for an increase of $100,000 in the appropriation for assessment and permit work.

The amount for collection and disposal of refuse and street cleaning is increased from $1,442,560 to $1,508,000. Of this increase $10,000 is provided for the purchase of land for the garbage-disposal plant authorized by the act of May 26, 1926, and the balance is divided between the items for street cleaning and for collection and disposal of refuse.

Under public playgrounds an increase of $3,000 for maintenance is carried.

The amount recommended for the electrical department provides an increase from $952,240 to $978,780. This includes provision for an additional engineer and three additional fire-alarm telegraph operators, $7,500 for replacing obsolete types of police patrol signaling systems in the ninth and tenth precincts, $1,300 for installation of call-signaling system in the first and sixth precincts, and $9,000 for an addition to the storehouse.

For public schools in 1928 the amount proposed is $12,344,701, with authority to enter into contractual obligations in excess of that amount by $1,195,500. For 1927 the appropriations amounted to $10,905,371, with contractual authority in the additional amount of $850,000. The items for 1928 for public schools, exclusive of buildings and grounds, carry a total of $9,278,766. The amount appropriated for 1927 was $8,609,371. The 1928 estimates for buildings and grounds amount to $3,006,750, while the appropriations for 1927 under this heading totaled $2,296,000.

The item for salaries of teachers is increased from $5,564,300 to $5,783,740. Of this amount, $121,100 provides for new teachers for varying periods of service during the year based upon class needs and probable date of occupancy of new buildings. The remainder is required for longevity salary increases. The item for payment of annuities is increased from $70,000 to $359,000 in accordance with section 7 of the act of June 11, 1926, directing the submission annually of an estimate of the amount, calculated upon an actuarial basis, sufficient to liquidate, within a period of approximately 30 years after July 1, 1926, the accrued liability as of that date. The item for care of buildings and grounds is increased from $545,000 to $575,000 to provide janitorial forces for the new school buildings to be occupied during the year. The amount estimated for furniture and equipment for new school buildings to be occupied in 1928 is $199,691, as against $195,071 for the same purpose for 1927. This does not include a new item of $100,000 for equipment for the McKinley Technical High School, which is carried for the purpose of permitting the installation of certain laboratory and other equipment that should be installed during the construction of the building. An increase from $85,000 to $100,000 is recommended in the contingent expense item for replacement and repair of desks and other equipment. The amount proposed for textbooks and school supplies, $175,000, represents a reduction of $25,000 from the appropriation for 1927. The progress that will be made during the present year in replacing obsolete books warrants, it is believed, the proposed reduction for 1928. The amount recommended for repairs to school buildings is the same as the amount for the present year. There is included, however, a new item of $100,000 for installing fire curtains at the Central and Dunbar High Schools. The insertion in the text of the repair item of a provision for electric lighting equipment is recommended.

Under public schools, buildings, and grounds, the following items are proposed: $275,000 for the completion of the Gordon Junior High School in Georgetown; $85,000 for the erection of a 4-room extensible building in Potomac Heights; $175,000 for the erection of an 8-room addition, including combination gymnasium and assembly hall, to the Barnard School; $375,000 for completing the construction of an addition to the Langley Junior High School; $275,000 for the erection of a 16-room building, including combination gymnasium and assembly hall, to replace the present Langdon School; $125,000 for the construction of a 6-room addition to the Bryan School; $275,000 for the completion of the Garnett-Patterson Junior High School; $150,000 for the construction of an 8-room addition to the Margaret Murray Washington Vocational School; $1,000,000 for continuing the construction of the McKinley Technical High School; $100,000 for the construction of a 6-room addition to the Crummel School; $1,500 for the preparation of plans and specifications for a combination gymnasium and assembly hall at the Wheatley School, with authority for the commissioners to enter into contract for its construction at a cost not to exceed $75,000; $3,000 for the preparation of plans and specifications for the construction of an 8-room addition to the Morgan School, including combination gymnasium and assembly hall and remodeling of the present building, with authority for the commissioners to enter into contract for such construction at a cost not to exceed $160,000; $5,000 for the preparation of plans and specifications for an extensible junior high school building in Brightwood, with authority for the commissioners to enter into contract for its construction at a total cost of not to exceed $475,000; $5,000 for the preparation of plans and specifications for the erection of a 24-room building, including combination gymnasium and assembly hall, on a site already purchased at Nineteenth Street and Columbia Road, with authority for the commissioners to enter into contract for its construction at a cost of not to exceed $500,000. The last four items are proposed in that form for the purpose of adjusting the flow of work in the office of the municipal architect. The municipal architect prepares his program of work for a fiscal year upon the basis of continuing approximately the same force throughout the year. This requires postponement of the preparation of plans for some buildings until toward the close of the fiscal year. The plans and specifications, for example, for all of the buildings for which appropriations were made for 1927 will not have been completed until the end of that fiscal year; and the funds appropriated for the construction of several of these buildings will not be required for expenditure until the fiscal year 1928. The estimates for 1928 have been prepared upon the basis, first, of providing appropriations for construction expenditures in 1928 for those proposed new buildings for which the municipal architect will be able to prepare plans and secure all or part construction thereof during that fiscal year; and second, of providing, in addition to contractual authorization, merely the small sums necessary for the preparation of plans for those buildings the plans of which can not be completed in time for beginning construction work prior to the end of the fiscal year. This latter proposal has the further advantage of permitting accurate estimates of appropriation needs.

It is proposed that $300,000 of the amount estimated for buildings and grounds shall be charged to the surplus revenue fund of the District (practically exhausting that fund), with the remainder to be paid directly from District revenues. It is also proposed that the paragraph requiring construction of any building under only one contract except for heating, lighting, and plumbing needs, shall be amended to provide a further exception with respect to painting and treatment of grounds. For the purchase of school building and playground sites in accordance with the limitations of existing law the Budget contains an estimate of $157,250.

The amount recommended for the police department for 1928 is $3,087,740, while the amount appropriated for 1927 is $3,077,070. No item is included in 1928 to correspond with the 1927 item of $60,000 for the purchase of a site and erection of a building for the fourteenth police precinct at Tenleytown. The estimates provide for the following increases: $19,430 for longevity increases and for allowances as prescribed by law for additional men detailed to special services; $5,000 for the purchase and operation of additional motor vehicle equipment; $5,000 for additional cells for the seventh precinct station house, and $26,000 for one light and one heavy duty police patrol boat. The purchase of these two boats, without additional cost for operation and maintenance, permits the elimination for 1928 of the 1927 item of $8,940 for harbor patrol, "Personal services," and a reduction of $1,500 in the item for harbor patrol, "Fuel." For purchase of uniforms and equipment $75,000 is estimated for 1928, while $50,000 was appropriated for this purpose for 1927 by the second deficiency act for 1926. The amount recommended to be authorized for expenditure from the policemen and firemen's relief fund is $590,000 as against $450,000 for 1927.

The 1927 appropriations for the fire department total $2,233,270; the estimates for 1928 amount to $2,123,205. No items are carried in 1928 to correspond with the 1927 items of $92,525 for the Sixteenth Street engine house, of $11,935 for additions to the repair shop, and of $20,000 for improving toilet and bathing facilities in engine houses. The 1928 estimates carry $80,000 for two new hook and ladder trucks, three new pumping engines, and two new combination hose wagons. A new item of $20,000 for a drill tower is also included.

The amount for the health department is increased from $351,350 to $355,910.

The amount recommended for the police court shows an increase from $115,770 to $132,820. Of this amount, $10,000 is required for additional compensation of jurors due to the increase in juror fees provided by the act of April 26, 1926, and $5,000 is provided for plans and specifications for a new police court building.

The municipal court item for compensation of jurors is increased by $1,000 on account of the new jury fee law. The supreme court item for fees of jurors is increased for the same reason from $69,000 to $85,000. The item for repairs and improvements to the courthouse is reduced from $7,500 to $2,500 due to the completion, in 1927, of painting work costing approximately $5,000. The item for miscellaneous expenses is decreased from $44,000 to $35,000, the difference of $9,000 representing expenditures for new furniture in 1927. The item for support of convicts is decreased from $150,000 to $120,000. It is believed that increased accommodations at the District workhouse and reformatory at Occoquan, Va., will permit a reduction in the number of District inmates of the Federal prisons at Atlanta, Ga., and Leavenworth, Kans., sufficient to justify the proposed reduction in this item for their support in the Federal prisons.

For the department of public welfare the amount of $3,416,495 is recommended. The total amount appropriated for 1927 is $3,707,540. The item for salaries, board of public welfare, is increased from $80,000 to $90,460 to provide additional personnel. The amount for board and care of guardianship children is increased from $120,000 to $140,000, due to an increase in the number of children cared for. The item for mothers' pensions is increased from $75,000 to $85,000. The item for support of prisoners at the District Jail shows an increase from $101,500 to $108,000 due to the increased number of inmates. For the same reason the item for maintenance, workhouse, is increased from $90,000 to $110,000; and the item for maintenance, reformatory, from $55,000 to $65,000. Continuation of the program of construction of new dormitories and other buildings at Occoquan is provided in the estimates for 1928 through items of $60,000 for this purpose at the workhouse and $53,000 at the reformatory. Under "Medical charities" the item for children's hospital is increased from $20,000 to $22,000. The items for the tuberculosis hospital are increased from $115,400 to $128,800 to provide for inclosing porches, alterations to elevator, and improvement of roads. An item of $10,000 for purchase of radium is included for Gallinger Hospital The item for salaries, District Training School, is increased from $25,000 to $35,000, and the item for maintenance is increased from $45,000 to $56,700, on account of the large increase in the number of inmates that will be accommodated at this institution in 1928. A corresponding decrease from $37,500 to $15,000 is recommended in the item for maintenance of feeble-minded children in private homes and institutions on account of the program to care for a considerable number of these children in 1928 at the District Training School. The building construction program at this institution, for which $147,500 was appropriated in 1927, is continued in the estimates for 1928 in the amount of $164,000 for two additional dormitories, a cow barn, and a tool house. The 1927 items amounting to $25,000 for improvements to buildings and grounds at the Home for the Aged and Infirm are replaced for 1928 by an estimate of $15,000 for new laundry equipment.

The continuing annual increase in the number of District insane patients at St. Elizabeths Hospital requires an increase from the 1927 appropriation of $1,000,000 to the amount estimated for 1928 of $1,200,000.

The completion in 1927 of certain major repair items carried in the appropriation of $25,000 for that year for the Columbia Lying-in Hospital for Women permits a reduction to $15,000 in the estimate for this item for 1928.

Construction items for 1927 of $275,000 for an addition to the District Jail and of $300,000 for continuing the construction of a domestic building and an additional ward building at Gallinger Hospital are not continued for 1928. The addition to the jail will be completed in 1927. The plans and specifications for the Gallinger Hospital buildings are not yet completed, and in view of the fact that the 1927 appropriation of $300,000, together with unexpended balances of prior appropriations, will provide $479,850 for construction expenditure after the contract is let, it is not believed that an estimate for additional funds for this purpose is warranted at this time.

Except for a minor saving effected through consolidation of a number of small items, the 1928 estimates for militia, District of Columbia, are practically the same as the appropriations for 1927.

The increase in the item for reclamation and improvement of the Anacostia River Flats from $170,000 to $185,000 is intended to provide for the purchase of all the remaining land to be acquired above Benning Bridge. The amount provided for work below Benning Bridge will complete that work.

The amount for general expenses, public buildings and public parks, is increased from $334,660 to $363,000 to provide for additional park improvement work. The items for salaries and for uniforms and equipment for the park police are increased approximately $15,000 to provide for the compensation and equipment of additional men authorized by the act of July 3, 1926.

For the construction of two bathing pools authorized by the act of May 4, 1926, an estimate of $150,000 is recommended.

Provision is made in the 1928 estimates for the purchase of land by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for park and playground purposes in the same amount and with the same limitations as are provided in the appropriation for 1927.

The 1927 appropriation of $49,000 for beginning the construction of the exhibition building for birds at the National Zoological Park is followed by an estimate for 1928 of $53,000 for the completion of the building and by an estimate of $25,000 for the necessary cages within and without the building.

The project for "Increasing water supply, District of Columbia," will be completed in 1928 with funds already appropriated for that purpose. When the water supply is put into operation and the Bryant Street pumping station is discontinued, there will be needed, in order to maintain the required pressure for the third high service area, a new 48-inch water main from the intersection of Nebraska and Wisconsin Avenues to Georgia Avenue and Military Road, at an estimated cost of $700,000. It is proposed in the Budget for 1928 to provide for the construction of this main next summer by an appropriation, to be made immediately available, of $300,000 from the revenues of the water department, and of $150,000 from the revenues of the District of Columbia, together with an authorization to expend for this purpose not to exceed $250,000 of the unexpended balances of appropriations heretofore made for "Increasing water supply, District of Columbia."

New items of $42,800 and $20,700 for laying water mains in Alabama Avenue SE. appear in the 1928 Budget, as does also an item of $60,000 for the construction of an additional water tower at the Reno Reservoir. The program inaugurated for 1927 by an appropriation of $50,000 for replacement of old water mains is continued in that amount for 1928.

The total amount of the permanent and indefinite items is increased from $1,573,557 to $2,542,000 to meet probable expenditures under these items in 1928.

Consolidation of certain appropriation items of small amounts has been recommended at different places in the estimates in the belief that such consolidation will be of assistance in securing a more economical and advantageous expenditure of funds.

INTEREST ON THE PUBLIC DEBT

Estimated expenditures for 1927, revised as shown in the 1928 Budget	$785, 000, 000
Estimated expenditures for 1928	755, 000, 000
Reduction	30, 000, 000

The reduction in the estimated expenditures for 1928 below those shown for 1927 is due to the continued curtailment of the outstanding principal of the public debt. On August 31, 1919, when the war debt was at its peak, the gross debt amounted to $26,596,701,648.01. On June 30, 1926, the gross debt amounted to $19,643,216,315.19, a reduction from peak of $6,953,485,332.82.

The interest paid during the fiscal year 1920 amounted to $1,020,251,622.28. As stated above, it is estimated that the interest payments during the fiscal year 1928 will amount to $755,000,000, a reduction since 1928 of about $265,250,000 in annual interest.

RETIREMENT OF THE PUBLIC DEBT REQUIRED TO BE MADE FROM ORDINARY RECEIPTS

Estimated expenditures for 1927, revised as shown in the 1928 Budget	$569, 981, 804. 84
Estimated expenditures for 1928	563, 629, 560. 93
Net reduction	6, 352, 243. 91

The estimated operations under the requirements of law with respect to the retirement of the public debt from ordinary receipts show a marked reduction for 1928 when compared with 1927. While sinking-fund operations are estimated to increase $18,098,876 from $336,058,208 in 1927 to $354,157,085 in 1928, the retirements from proceeds of principal and interest on foreign government obligations will be reduced $24,251,121 from $232,923,596 in 1927 to $208,672,475 in 1928. The retirements from Federal reserve bank franchise tax receipts will be reduced $200,000 from $500,000 in 1927 to $300,000 in 1928, while the retirements from net earnings derived from Federal intermediate credit banks will remain at $500,000 in both years.

NOTE.—It is recommended that the appropriation "Salaries, office of the Public Printer," be discontinued as a separate appropriation, and a portion of the sum heretofore annually appropriated under that heading be added to and combined with the appropriation for "Public printing and binding, Government Printing Office." The reasons are as follows:

The Kiess Act to regulate and fix rates of pay for employees and officers of the Government Printing Office, approved June 7, 1924 (Stat. L. 43, p. 658), after passing in the House was amended in the Senate so as to clearly state that the salaries and wages of all officers and employees in the Government Printing Office were to be governed thereby, and the language of the act beyond question included the salaried employees who happened to be appropriated for under "Office of the Public Printer" and "Office of the Superintendent of Documents." The Comptroller General, however, has held that inasmuch as those two appropriations carried a reference to the classification act, said act, and not the Kiess Act, must apply.

The salaries paid under the Office of the Public Printer are a definite and inseparable part of printing and binding costs and are included in the charges made to departments. The work performed by the employees paid from said appropriation is closely connected and comparable in every way with the work of a much larger number of employees who are paid out of the appropriation for "Public printing and binding." There seems no longer to be any good reason for two separate appropriations covering identical work in the Government Printing Office, and especially so when the total expense under the two appropriations is ultimately applied to one object, i. e., the cost of printing and binding for the Government. To carry all such expense under one appropriation would be an economy and a more business-like arrangement. It is therefore recommended that the total amount now appropriated under the two appropriations combined be reduced by $56,453, provided the combination of the two appropriations is made.

The present salary of the Public Printer is $7,500 and of the Deputy Public Printer $5,000. The request for increase of $2,500 for the Public Printer and $2,000 for the Deputy Public Printer is fully justified by comparison with the present compensation paid a large number of commissioners and heads of independent establishments, ranging from $10,000 to $12,000 a year. It is submitted that the administration of the Government Printing Office requires specialized knowledge, experience, and executive ability, and carries responsibilities fully comparable with any of these positions. Further, there are numerous cases in the commercial field where administrative officers in printing and binding plants are paid from $10,000 to $25,000 a year, some receiving in addition a substantial bonus, and none of the establishments concerned do a variety or volume of business comparable with that required of the Government Printing Office. H. R. 9459, Sixty-ninth Congress, first session, carrying the proposed salaries of $10,000 and $7,000, respectively, was favorably reported and is now on the House calendar.

Printing and binding for Congress chargeable to the foregoing appropriation, when recommended to be done by the Committee on Printing of either House, shall be so recommended in a report containing an approximate estimate of the cost thereof, together with a statement from the Public Printer of estimated approximate cost of work previously ordered by Congress within the fiscal year for which this appropriation is made.

During the fiscal year [1927] 1928 any executive department or independent establishment of the Government ordering printing and binding from the Government Printing Office shall pay promptly by check to the Public Printer upon his written request, either in advance or upon completion of the work, all or part of the estimated or actual cost thereof, as the case may be, and bills rendered by the Public Printer in accordance herewith shall not be subject to audit or certification in advance of payment: Provided, That proper adjustments on the basis of the actual cost of delivered work paid for in advance shall be made monthly or quarterly and as may be agreed upon by the Public Printer and the department or establishment concerned. All sums paid to the Public Printer for work that he is authorized by law to do shall be deposited to the credit, on the books of the Treasury Department, of the appropriation made for the working capital of the Government Printing Office, for the year in which the work is done, and be subject to requisition by the Public Printer.

All amounts in the Budget for the fiscal year [1928] 1929 for printing and binding for any department or establishment, so far as the Bureau of the Budget may deem practicable, shall be incorporated in a single item for printing and binding for such department or establishment and be eliminated as a part of any estimate for any other purpose. And if any amounts for printing and binding are included as a part of any estimates for any other purposes, such amounts shall be set forth in detail in a note immediately following the general estimate for printing and binding: Provided, That the foregoing requirements shall not apply to work to be executed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

No part of any money appropriated in this act shall be paid to any person employed in the Government Printing Office while detailed for or performing service in any other executive branch of the public service of the United States unless such detail be authorized by law.

[Payment of not to exceed the contract price of $125,000 for three postal card presses ordered in fiscal years 1924 and 1925 shall be made upon audit and order of the Joint Committee on Printing; and such audit, order, and payment shall be conclusive and binding upon all parties concerned as to correctness of the account.]

OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF DOCUMENTS
Salaries, Office of the Superintendent of Documents—
For the Superintendent of Documents, assistant superintendent, and other personal services in accordance with the [classification act of 1923, $382,050: Provided, That employees in the office of the Superintendent of Documents may be paid compensation for night, Sunday, holiday, and overtime work at rates not in excess of the rates of additional compensation for such work allowed to other employees of the Government Printing Office under the] provisions of the act entitled "An act to regulate and fix rates of pay for employees and officers of the Government Printing Office," approved June 7, 1924, $420,000 [: Provided further, That for the purpose of conforming to section 3 of this act, this appropriation shall be considered a separate appropriation unit] (act May 13, 1926, vol. 44, pp. 552, 553)	$420,000.00	$382,050.00

NOTE.—It is recommended that the employees under the office of the Superintendent of Documents be included under the operation of the act to regulate and fix rates of pay for employees and officers of the Government Printing Office, approved June 7, 1924, for reasons stated in note under "Public printing and binding." The close connection between production and distribution in the Government Printing Office makes it very advisable that wage adjustments under the Superintendent of Documents be made in the same manner as those which have been made under authority of law to the personnel under "Public printing and binding." It is estimated the necessary changes will require approximately $38,000 additional over the present appropriation. This increase is more than absorbed by the recommended reduction made in other appropriations made under the Government Printing Office.

The business of the Division of Public Documents increased in 1926 beyond any previous year, as follows: Receipts from sales, $544,937.51; an increase of $57,014.88 (12 per cent); publications sold, 10,962,571, an increase of 3,191,789 (41 per cent); publications mailed for departments, 48,033,820, an increase of 6,982,664 (17 per cent).

The additional sums are allotted annually to each State by the Secretary of Agriculture and paid in the proportion which the rural population of each State bears to the total rural population of all the States as determined by the next preceding Federal census, but no payment out of the additional appropriations can be made in any year to any State until an equal sum has been appropriated for that year by the legislature of such State, or provided by State, county, college, local authority, or individual contributions from within the State, for the maintenance of cooperative agricultural extension work (act May 8, 1914, vol. 38, p. 373, sec. 3) ..... $4,580,000.00 | $4,580,000.00

As this travel is performed under all conditions of weather, principally under the changeable and severe climatic conditions of the Great Lakes, the use of a closed car is essential to reasonable safety and comfort.
